Corps orders Slough area restoration

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The U.S. Corps of Engineers will require Dobrey Slough developer Steve Lathrop to restore his property to its original condition within 60 days, but the developer says he can't afford to do so.

According to Ken Davis, chairman of the Horseshoe Lake Resource Planning Committee, the Corps has determined that Lathrop must retilt a lake he dug replant trees where he removed them and remove any debris he may have placed in the area.

An order from the Corps was reported to have been issued to Lathrop Monday.

Lathrop said he does not have the financial resources to comply with the order.

Lathrop, owner of Ramm Development Inc., had applied to the Corps for a permit to build in a wetland. He proposed digging a two-acre lake, 15 feet deep, to enhance drainage in the flood-plagued area, and constructing seven homes on lots around the lake.

The lake was "90 percent finished," according to Lathrop, when he received a cease and desist order from the Corps in December.

The Corps found that work done in the wetland was a violation of Section 301 of the Clean Water Act.

Alternatives "available to the Corps included referral to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, requiring full restoration; acceptance of the after-the-fact permit application, pursuit of civil and criminal action, or a combination of the above.

Lathrop said he was unaware of the permit requirement when he began work on the project last fall.

Lathrop claims the Corps based its decision solely on perceived public opinion of the project and not on its relative merits. He further claims the majority of area residents are in fact in favor of his project, but have been less vocal than opponents.

Lathrop said the work was being done on borrowed funds, and that he had declared bankruptcy in the past, although he is in the process of repaying his debtors.

"But there is no way I can afford to restore the property to its original condition," he said.

At least eight telephone calls were received at the Press-Record/Journal office Monday from area residents angry with the Corps decision.

Robinson officials visit port

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Robinson Steel will decide on a location for its new facility "within a couple of weeks."

Robinson is still considering "a couple or three sites, all in the Granite City area," according to Paul Labriola, vice president and general manager.

Officials from Robinson Steel, based in East Chicago, Ind., met with officials from the Tri-City Regional Port District here Thursday to discuss possible sites — and prices — for a proposed new $10 million steel processing plant.

Labriola said Robinson officials were considering one port site and "a couple" of others. He declined to be more specific about the locations.

"We don't want to create any ill-founded optimism for anyone," he explained.

At a meeting of the Tri-City Regional Port District Board Monday evening, Bob Wydra, port general manager, told the commissioners he would propose three sites to Robinson officials.

Site one, characterized by Wydra as the best location, is a 75-by-700-foot plot with adequate rail access and adjacent land available for future expansion. The port district would consider leasing the property to Robinson, he said.

Site two contains fewer acres, but would be available for sale to Robinson, Wydra said. He said the property "barely fits" Robinson's specifications and has limited rail access.

The third and least feasible site includes property owned by the port district and the U.S. Corps of Engineers.

Wydra said at the April 8 meeting, "We want to give them the best site available." He said the usual lease price is $2,000 per acre, and asked for authorization from the commissioners to negotiate a lower price should it become necessary.

"But since the press is here, I don't want to discuss a price at (See PORT, Page 2A)

Former Madison man drowns in Florida

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA. — A native of Madison drowned last week off the coast of Florida when wind-swept waves swamped the boat in which he and his wife were fishing.

LT. Col. Virgil Phipps drowned in the accident last Wednesday off the coast of Tampa Bay, but a life jacket and a floating wooden boat saved the life of his wife, Helen.

The St. Petersburg Times, quoting local authorities, said strong winds and four-foot seas battered the Phippases as they tried to bail water from their sinking 17-foot motorboat. With water streaming in, Phipps put on a life jacket and handed another to his wife as the boat sank in Tampa Bay.

"I never did see him again," Mrs. Phipps, 78, told a reporter. Rescuers found Virgil Phipps face down in the water about 10 minutes after the 11:25 a.m. incident, with his life vest still wrapped in a plastic bag.

Mrs. Phipps' sister-in-law, Mrs. Helen Harshany of Granite City, said the strong winds and a wall of water seemed to come out of nowhere to swamp the boat. According to Harshany, Helen Phipps "said that in her 18 years of handling a boat, she (See DROWNING, Page 2A)

Conference to focus on cultural diversity

By Mickey Harris
Staff writer

First of a series
As the year 2000 approaches, the nation's work force will become more and more diversified as 85 percent of the growth there is seen among minorities, women and immigrants.

Those figures show a need for administration in the country's corporations and businesses to manage such diverse people in a way that will create a productive work environment, without creating disadvantages to those workers, said Dr. R. Roosevelt Thomas Jr., executive director and founder of the American Institute for managing diversity in Atlanta. The

Officer honored Action stopped suicide attempt

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Patrolman Michael Leisner was officially commended Monday for his role "above and beyond the call of duty" in thwarting a suicide attempt March 22.

According to police reports, at 7:19 p.m. on that date Leisner and two other officers responded to the old Washington Theater building near 19th Street and Edison Avenue after a 16-year-old woman reported her 18-year-old boyfriend was on top of the building and had threatened to jump.

At the building, the officers saw the young man standing on the roof yelling that he was going to jump. Leisner climbed onto the roof and, as he approached the young man, the man sat down on the edge, still threatening to jump.

Meanwhile, from the ground officers reported the young man had one leg hanging over the edge of the building. He was crying and threatening to jump, while his father from the ground below pleaded with him not to jump.

At the time, the young man was near four large power lines — lines that Illinois Power officials later said would have electrocuted him before he (See OFFICER, Page 2A)

Cleanup set for Saturday

By Dennis Grubaugh
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Combining main highways and side streets this Saturday morning, a team will be looking to rid the city of environmental Public Enemy No. 1 — litter.

The annual Slush Trash cleanup campaign will unleash its assault at 9 a.m. with a preliminary gathering at Wilson Park, followed by the city wide cleanup, which will last until around noon.

"Volunteers will then return to the park to analyze their successes. The format will again be a golf theme in which prizes will be awarded for trash collected.

St. Louis Retrospective: 10 Years Of Schoemehl

Return with us now to those glorious days of yesteryear. It is April 21, 1981, and 34-year-old Vincent C. Schoemehl Jr., the 28th Ward Alderman, is being sworn in as mayor of the City of St. Louis.

Ten years of Vince Schoemehl. Can it really be that long? Or does it seem like he's been mayor forever? How did he survive that long? Better yet, how did we survive that long?

The world has changed. Friends and enemies, issues and controversies, all have come and gone. But Vince Schoemehl remains the Energizer Bunny of City Hall. He just keeps going and going and going.

No matter if you live in the city or the suburbs, Vince Schoemehl has been a big part of your life for 10 years. And, since he's now running for governor, he could be an even bigger part in years to come unless you live in Illinois. And who knows? I wouldn't put it past him to run for governor of Illinois, either.

So it seemed like an appropriate time to ask him to look back on his tenure in office.

"The short term is that it's been 10 years of progress heavily laced with controversy," he said.

Or perhaps, I suggested, 10 years of controversy heavily laced with progress?

"Yeah, I wouldn't argue with that, either," he laughed.

Schoemehl was a history major at the University of Missouri-St. Louis and his view of the last 10 years of history is—surprise—a positive one. His staff has prepared a compare-and-contrast press kit, laden with national press clippings. In 10 years, St. Louis has gone from an "urban basketcase" (The Wall Street Journal, 1981) to "the comeback city of the '80s," (Architectural Magazine, 1990).

Of course, those of us who've lived here may have missed some of this because of all the flack we've been dodging. I jotted down just a few of my favorite Schoemehl firestorms:

The battle over Homer Phillips Hospital. The non-resurrection of the Globe-Democrat. The Gene McNary Wars. The Bill Bidwell Wars. The advent of Harry Ernest. The departure of Harry Ernest. The feud with Mike Shanahan. The great job-switch that resulted in Virvius Jones becoming a household word. The Cupples Station brouhaha. The Gateway Mall saga. The Admiral. The Airport.

I could go on, but you get the point.

Which of these, I asked the mayor, would he list as the Top Three Things I'd Like to Do Over Again. His answers:

"I wish the Admiral had turned out differently," he said. "I don't regret having done it; at the time, you'll recall, everyone was clamoring for something to be done. Right or wrong, I went and did it."

The Admiral wound up as a $32-million white elephant and cost the city some $7 million. Worst of all, it just sits down on the riverfront, a stainless-steel open wound.

"The Gateway Mall. I jumped too soon to bring in developers. We should have kept working on it."

The result: instead of having a wide green mall through the heart of downtown, we have an undistinguished building and a crummy-looking amphitheater in Kiener Plaza. On the other hand, it's better than abandoned buildings.

"The Cupples Station issue. The way I handled it was wrong. I think I was right but I can't find fault with those who find fault with the way I handled it."

Indeed, he reneged on a commitment to allow Anheuser-Busch to develop the lands of Busch Stadium with a new arena and adjacent parking. The fallout continues.

But, still, the city's budget is in balance. There are service shortfalls and incredible feats of financial juggling but St. Louis pays its bills.

Regional hospital has meant better health care for the indigent. The city's homeless network works better than the Rev. Larry Rice would like to admit. The light-rail project is in the works. The stadium-convention center project is getting close. The arena may yet be built.

The fate of Trans World Airlines and Lambert-St. Louis International Airport hangs in the balance and there's still much that can go wrong. But at least Vince Schoemehl has been in there pitching for 10 years. Better than sitting on the sidelines complaining, which is the traditional St. Louis way.

And Lord knows, he's been a newspaper columnist's best friend. Space never goes unfilled. For that, Vince, you have my profound gratitude.

"We have more teams participating this year," said Shirley Bush of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce. The chamber's Community Pride Committee is the main event coordinator.

Volunteers will go to the park, get their bags and vests, and head for the highways, in assigned fashion.

There will be about 13 or 14 teams, Bush said.

"We also have quite a few organizations that will be doing particular areas," she said, listing the Maple Street Block Association; Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society; the Methodist Men's Club, which will clean around Niedringhaus United Methodist Church; Coordinated Youth, which will scout several blocks in downtown, just as members have done all year long; St. Elizabeth Medical Center candy strippers, who will be doing the area around the hospital and its Wellness Center.

Also, the Old Six Mile Historical Society, which will do the grounds around the museum on Maryville Road (at 10:30 a.m. the Granite City Homemakers Unit will plant a tree at the Old Six Mile building grounds). The Arlington Civic Association, which will be doing its area and having its own picnic; OATH (Organization for Advancement of the Handicapped), which will be cleaning the area around its building in Madison, and C.D. Peters Construction Co. which will be doing the area around its

When Leisner got close to the man, Leisner asked everyone to move back so he could speak with him; the officer then spoke with the man. At about the same time, an ambulance and ladder truck from the Granite City Fire Department arrived at the scene.

Fearing that if Leisner attempted to grab the young man Leisner would be pulled over the edge himself, police asked the ladder truck crew to help get more officers on the roof.

But, while the ladder truck was being placed into position, the young man began crying even louder and leaning even property along Illinois Route 3. New this year is a competition between the Mitchell Firefighters and Auxiliary, which will compete in picking up trash to see which group has to cook breakfast for the other, Bush said.

The Chouteau Township Senior Citizens also note that they will continue their work on the park behind their hall in Mitchell, Bush said.

Then we've got about 600 Scouts that will clean the interior parts of the city.

Democratic Precinct Committees will again be out delivering bags, and a couple of teams are expected from the Charles Melvin Price Army Support Center.

This year, local merchants went out of their way to assist with donations, Bush said.

Food has been donated by Coke for the Scouts; Vess Soda is bringing its wagon in for the adults; McDonald's is furnishing garbage bags and coupons for the kids; Shoney's is giving coupons to the Scouts; for the adult picnic, Shoney's is furnishing hamburgers.

Shop 'N' Save gave a $100 certificate; National Food Store is furnishing beef dogs and buns; Taco Bell is furnishing cinnamon twist; and decorative patches are being paid for by Waste Management. Laidlaw Waste System Inc. will give the prizes.

Posters for the campaign, designed by students in Coordinated Youth Services, are being displayed in downtown businesses.

farther over the edge of the building.

From the ground, the police officers observed a brief struggle between Leisner and the man. The officers saw Leisner grab and yank him away from the edge and both then fell and disappeared from view.

Police officers on the ground repeatedly tried to reach Leisner by radio. He was unable to respond. The officers saw Leisner, the young man kept up his struggle to break free and to jump off the roof.

The man was subdued only after firefighters and another police officer were able to get onto the roof and assist Leisner. The man was then removed, unharmed, from the roof.

issued by the Southwest Illinois Development Authority.

Alan Ortbal, economic development director for Granite City, said the City Council is expected to vote on the bond capacity increase of $1.6 million to SWIDA on Tuesday night in order to make the project possible.

At least one Granite City site is being considered by Robinson, officials report.

Wydra was not available to comment Friday.

Today "is a workshop which focuses on cultural diversity and finding ways to understand and appreciate differences among people. The event is sponsored by the Suburban Journals, KMOX Radio, American Business and Southwestern Bell Foundation. Provident Counseling is the area's largest and oldest white-collar community mental health organization.

Thomas will focus his workshop on diversity in the workplace.

"Basically we'll be looking at the differences between or among managing diversity, affirmative action and valuing differences as an approach for dealing with diversity in the workplace," Thomas said. "How does the manager go about creating an environment that will work for diverse groups of people without disadvantaging anyone?"

Managers of businesses and corporations come into contact with a many diversities in the workplace: race, gender, age, lifestyles, diversities in acquisitions and mergers, educational diversity, Thomas said.

Managing those diversities takes all at the different ethic and gender groups — including white-collar workers — used by the management to create a productive work environment, despite and because of the diversity.

Managers must learn "to understand the differences to get at the similarities, to have a cohesive and common goal without necessarily compromising their diversity," Thomas said.

"Now there are a number of people saying 'I'm different, I'm proud to be different,' he said. "The manager's job is to create an environment that does not infringe on those differences."

To do this, managers must look at the culture of the business, at the basic roots, what drives the actions within the company — and possibly change it from a one, according to its employees, he said.

Also, the company's means of developing employees or recruiting people may need to be diversified, he said.

"In some organizations, minorities and women are not developed in proportion to their numbers," Thomas said.

While managing diversity is a relatively new concept — having been "en vogue" for about 3 years — Thomas said businesses today have the choice but to diversify because of the variety of workers available and qualified today.

"People are more diverse and less ready to assimilate than before," he said. "Affirmative action should be continued. It's a continuous contribution. How useful can it be from this point forward? I think it has to be supplemented with managing diversity."

Developer optimistic about Lincoln Place

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Viewed from a helicopter, Paul Podraza said, Lincoln Place is at the very center of the metropolitan St. Louis area.

Podraza, who at the time operated a successful hairstyling business in Clayton, said that after seeing it from the air about a year ago, he decided to take a closer look at Lincoln Place.

He found a "quiet little neighborhood just off Route 2," and wondered why it couldn't go through a renaissance along the line of the Central West End or Soudard neighborhoods in St. Louis.

After getting positive economic projections for the Illinois 3 corridor from the state, last April Podraza and his partner, Joan Miller, purchased the Simms College building at 901 Niedringhaus Ave. from Nellie Bogosian and "Planet Granite" was born.

It wasn't an easy birth. It took nearly a year of remodeling for Podraza and his family, including an electrician son and a carpenter son, to turn the building into a hairdressing salon.

The interior of the building was gutted and then replaced with a salon designed by Podraza and Miller. Living quarters for each were built upstairs.

A two-story sandstone structure built by the Griesbeck brothers in 1906, the building has housed a bank, grocery store, shoe repair shop, pool hall, boutique and other businesses.

It had been owned by the Bogosian family ever since Harry Bogosian purchased it in 1915. In recent years, the building has been known as both Simms College and Blubbies.

It was an "aging landmark," Podraza said, and he made sure the remodeled building maintained its historic exterior.

Podraza said the original purchase price for the building and lot was $38,000, but it is now appraised at $250,000.

"I'm not the first to rehab a building in Lincoln Place," he said. "But mine is probably the most visible example of what can be done here."

Looking up Niedringhaus Avenue toward downtown, Podraza pointed out where acquaintances were considering a sandwich shop, a doctor's office and several other small businesses.

"Joan and I brought 75 to 100 customers with us from Missouri," he said. "Customers who have money, who would be spending money here if there were some place to spend it."

But, he said, the city has been lukewarm about helping redevelop the neighborhood.

"Sometimes I think they have already written off Lincoln Place," he said. "Really, it seems to me they want to see it run all the way down so they can just level it and put in industry."

"They put all that money into East Granite, why not some here? They put all that money into sidewalks downtown just in time, it seems to me, to have everything move out."

But Podraza said he believes the neighborhood will redevelop even without the city's help.

"I wish they would do more about the junk cars, the trash in vacant lots, the people who sit on the sidewalk, drink, and then break the beer bottles on the street," Podraza said.

"But we have a lot of good neighbors. We're going to make a success of the neighborhood no matter what I've become a one-man 'clean up Lincoln Place' campaign, going around and picking up trash. And I'm hoping more people in the neighborhood can get involved."

As a hairstylist, Podraza studied with Vidal Sassoon in both Los Angeles and London and formerly practiced in Beverly Hills, Calif. Miller has been a hairstylist in St. Louis for more than a decade.

Podraza's brother, Jerry Podraza, is also a stylist at Planet Granite.

Company to remove fallen tree

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A tree that fell against a house in the 2200 block of Missouri Avenue two weeks ago will soon be removed. As reported in Thursday's edition of the Press-Record, James Reynolds of 2212 Missouri Ave. has had tree, fallen from adjacent property, leaning against his house since March 27.

Reynolds and his son Dennis talked with city, county and state officials to see who is responsible for the tree's removal.

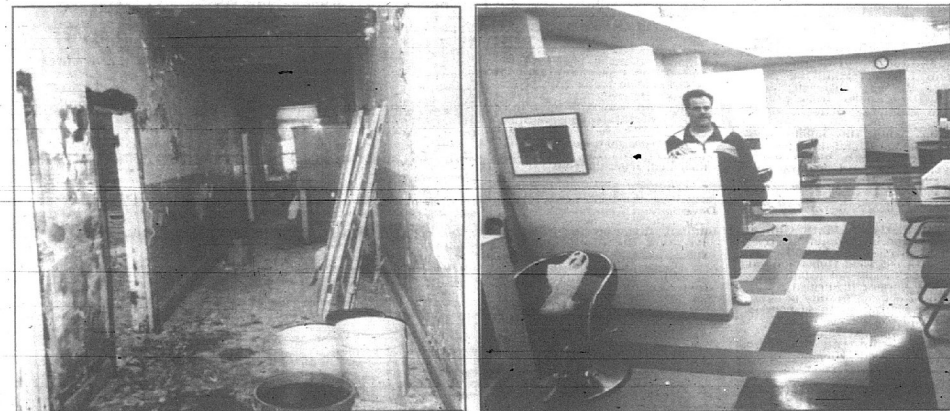

They reported nobody was willing to remove the tree "because it's on private property." Reynolds is a retired A.C. Smith Corp. welder who has no homeowner insurance to cover the expense of removing the tree.

But Dennis Reynolds reported Friday that Alderman Dan Partney has arranged for C.D. Peters Construction Co. to remove the tree at no charge.

Partney said he has been attempting to get the job done for about two weeks. He said he tried to get the Street Department to remove the tree, but city attorneys had told the department it could not do the job because it is on private land.

Partney said, "Carl Peters is a good-hearted guy, and agreed to remove the tree for humanitarian reasons."

Partney said Monday that Peters planned to remove the tree some time during this week. James and Dennis Reynolds said they are "just thankful" that the job will finally get done.

BEFORE REHAB: The interior of the building was removed and rebuilt. Paul Podraza, one of Planet Granite's partners, said the renovation increased the building's value to a quarter of a million dollars.

AFTER: Paul Podraza stands inside the modernized Planet Granite.

Neighbor of Year is Melodie Rayl

Essay cites spirit, pride

Melodie Rayl was chosen as the "Neighbor of the Year" by the Granite City Board of Realtors through a winning essay written by Mark Hewlett, an eighth grade student at Holy Family Catholic School. Mark wrote the winning essay in a contest conducted by the Granite City Board of Realtors.

Barbara Wyatt, board president, said that the essay contest guidelines asked entrants to describe in 750 words or less "My Favorite Neighbor," giving qualities of a neighbor who exhibits pride in property and neighborhood, and spirit for community service. Essays were judged on appropriate theme development, creativity, correct grammar and organization.

The contest was held in conjunction with the Granite City Board of Realtors' celebration of American Home Week, April 14-20, an annual event sponsored by Realtors and Realtor-Associates nationwide.

Mark Hewlett, 13, attends Holy Family Catholic School. He is the son of Tom and Pat Hewlett, 3149 Yale, Granite City. His prize includes a check for $30.00.

In Mark's winning essay, he describes Melodie Rayl as his favorite neighbor. He describes Melodie as someone who is friendly, helpful, interesting, to talk to and courteous to her neighbors. Hewlett states that "She does more for other people than she does for herself. She works for my church when they need a helping hand. She helps my family when they need something also."

He goes on to state how Ms. Rayl keeps her house neat and clean and tries to make the neighborhood look as nice and friendly as possible.

Clarissa Holmes, age 13 years, was the second place winner. She is in the eighth grade at Griggby Junior High School. She is the daughter of Charlene and Holmes. Her prize includes a check for $35.

Michael Halbrook, age 13 years, was the third place winner in the contest. He attends Holy Family Catholic School. He is the son of Russ and Rita Halbrook. His prize includes a check for $15.

Buddy Prazma, 12, attends Holy Family Catholic School, and received a Certificate of Recognition for his essay, which placed him fourth. He is the son of Louis and Diana Prazma. As first place winner, Hewlett will represent Granite City in a statewide contest sponsored by the Illinois Association of Realtors. The IAR will select three best essays from those received throughout the state, awarding $1,000, $500, and $250 savings bond to first, second, and third place winners, respectively.

The Granite City Board of Realtors is one of more than 23 Boards in the state that help comprise the Illinois Association of Realtors. This professional trade association represents some 32,000 members involved in every phase of the real estate industry.

Wyatt and Rose Eckhard, public relations and special events chairman, thanked all the teachers and parents who encouraged their students and children to participate in this year's contest, and look forward to next year's contest.

NEIGHBOR OF THE YEAR award is presented to Melodie Rayl, center, by Rose Eckhard of Crews Realty, while Barb Wyatt, right, and Mark Hewlett watch.

'A neighbor everyone would like to have'

Following is the text of Mark Hewlett's winning entry in the Board of Realtors' "Neighbor of the Year" contest.

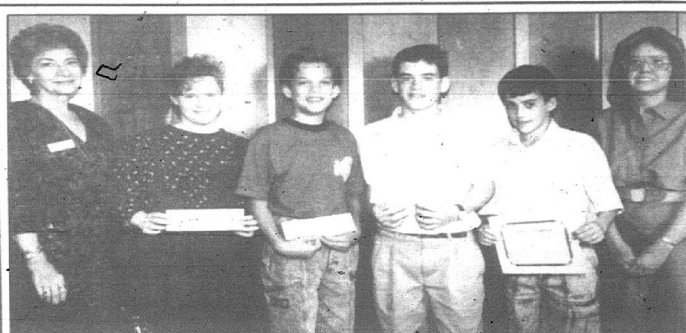

I think a good neighbor should be friendly, helpful, interesting, and courteous to their neighbors. A good neighbor should also keep their house clean and inviting for all the people who live around them. My neighbor, Melodie Rayl, is a person just like this. She is a funny and cheerful lady who makes you happy. She has all the qualities to be my good neighbor.

When I see her she always waves and talks to me. I feel comfortable visiting with her. She supports my school whenever she can. Some people tell you to get out of their way. Melodie will help you, even if it's not convenient for her.

Melodie does more things for other people than she does for herself. She works for my church when they need a helping hand. She helps my family when they need something also. She does these things plus her own job. Melodie shares and treats my family with kindness. She does these things with a smile. A person like this is a great neighbor to have.

Melodie always keeps her house looking nice and clean. She tries to make the neighborhood look as nice and friendly as possible. She has a cat and a dog and still keeps her lawn in good condition. A good neighbor does these things for their friends. A good neighbor should keep their home looking nice for everyone.

Melodie is a neighbor you can count on. She will give you a laugh when you need it the most. Believe it or not, Melodie does all these wonderful things while being in a wheelchair. She's just like anyone else. She's a neighbor everyone would like to have.

County program teaches children about animals

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Fourth-graders in Madison County can learn all about animals through a new program titled "Animals — the Human Connection." Classroom kits have been given to all Madison County public and parochial schools by the Madison County Board, Madison County Rabies Control, Regional Superintendent of Schools Office and Madison County Humane Society.

The five-day program targets fourth-graders, teaching about animal overpopulation and pet care. The kits were developed by the Illinois State Veterinary Medical Association. Each program features a veterinarian or humane society official.

Ledy Vankavage, president of the Madison County Humane Society, took her first classroom visit Friday to Sue Wolf's class at St. Boniface School in Edwardsville.

"It was wonderful," Vankavage said. "The kids just love the animals." Vankavage brought some shelter animals along for the children to meet. One of the animal guests, a puppy, was later dubbed "Midnight" by the class.

Vankavage said this is the first time that humane education has been funded by the county. She plans to address the county board's Animal Control Committee later this year about financing for a first-grade program.

"There is a lot that needs to be done," Vankavage said. During her presentation, Vankavage also uses 15-minute videotapes that teach the children about avoiding dog bites, the responsibilities that accompany pet ownership, and why wild animals don't make good pets.

The visits usually last 30 to 60 minutes. Those interested in arranging such a visit can call Vankavage at 345-6198.

Briefly

Child Center speaker today

As part of its celebration of "Wellness," the Early Childhood Center of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will present speakers during April and conduct an open house in May. Teachers and children at the center will present "Healthy Snacks" from 4:30-5:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 17, at the Center. Dr. Michelle Prettyman-Neely, a Godfrey pediatrician, will speak about "Childhood Illnesses" from 5-6 p.m. Wednesday, April 24, at the Center.

The Center's open house is scheduled from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday, May 5, and will include wellness activities for children and parents.

Costlier to own, operate car

It now costs 37.3 cents per mile to own and operate a 1991 American-made car, according to the Auto Club in its 1991 edition of the "Your Driving Costs" pamphlet.

This is up 4.3 cents over last year's operating costs. The 37.3 cents per mile represents a composite national average for three popular size 1991 models — a four-cylinder Ford Escort LX, a six-cylinder Ford Taurus L, and an eight-cylinder Chevrolet Caprice — driven 15,000 miles per year and kept four years. For a free copy of the 1991 edition, persons may send a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope to: AAA-Auto Club of Missouri, Driving Costs, 12901 N. Forty Drive, St. Louis, Mo. 63141.

New student trustee to be seated tonight

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

Sue Shreve of Waterloo can add another challenge to her list of academic endeavors.

While trying to juggle evening classes at Belleville Area College's Red Bud Campus, working full-time and raising three children, Shreve, 33, was elected this month as BAC's new student trustee.

She will be sworn in as a trustee at tonight's (Wednesday, April 17) meeting of the Board of Trustees.

As the student trustee, her vote on the board will be advisory. The board will take her vote into consideration; however, it will not directly affect the board's decisions.

Shreve will be replacing Myra Polston, who served as the student representative from the Granite City Campus.

Polston said being a student trustee and working with the board has been a positive and educational experience.

"I can tell you I have not had a better year," Polston said. Each spring, a new student trustee is elected by the students. The representative is chosen from one of the three campuses on a rotating basis.

Shreve said that, at this time, there are no particular issues she would like to tackle, but she would like to act as the voice of the student body when it comes to trustee meetings.

She wants to encourage students to voice their concerns about campus issues.

Shreve, a 1974 graduate of Cahokia High School, works as an administrative assistant for General American Life Insurance Co. in St. Louis.

She is working toward an associate degree in computer science at BAC and plans to continue her studies at SIUE.

She would like to use her education to promote company services and products for General.

GI, recovering at Scott AFB, reflects on Gulf war

By Liz Quirin
Staff writer

A U.S. Army private was driving along a highway in Kuwait with his buddy on March 8, looking for spare parts for American vehicles damaged in the Persian Gulf War.

Today, Pfc. Charles Ritter, stationed at Ft. Riley, Kansas, is lying in a hospital bed at Scott Air Force Base Medical Center near Belleville, and his buddy is dead.

He is quiet, thoughtful, measuring his words carefully as he explains what happened.

It is difficult for him to speak about the ordeal, but Ritter said he thinks about what happened to him and his buddy every day.

Ritter was wounded when his friend, whom Ritter did not want to name, stepped on a land mine. The pair had stopped to get a closer look at an Iraqi tank.

"We stopped pretty close to the tank," Ritter said. "I got out and walked to the back of the vehicle. My buddy got out on the passenger side, walked to the front and came around, the same way I did."

"He got almost to the back where I was, and stepped on a land mine," Ritter said.

Ritter has been at Scott AFB for a month, recovering from shrapnel wounds in his left leg and ankle, and his right foot.

"He will have permanent disability in his lower extremity from the wound," said Air Force Maj. William Price, an orthopedic surgeon and reservist in the Aeromedical Patient Staging Squadron at the base.

Price, a Belleville physician, was activated and sent to Scott AFB during the Persian Gulf War.

Ritter said he thinks about the time before he was wounded. "I had no idea what I was going into, what I would see or what would happen," Ritter said.

"The unit got along good," Ritter said. "Very seldom did anybody get down; we were always there, supporting each other."

Soldiers in his unit who are still in the Persian Gulf call Ritter to see how he's doing. He is expected to remain in the hospital for several weeks before returning home to Bainbridge Ga.

"They said they would be glad when we could all get back together again," Ritter said. "It just hurt them as bad as it did me when we lost our friend."

Price said, seeing soldiers return from war, injured emotionally or physically, is the dreaded part of war.

"And then you see how these young men respond, heal and get back their normal lives, and this is what makes them truly heroic," Price said.

Contact with their families is an important part of the healing process and although it was several days later that Ritter's wife, Rhonda, discovered her husband was injured, she responded quickly when she heard her husband was injured.

"I went to a memorial service March 7 (in Ft. Riley, Kansas) for several of the men who were killed," Rhonda Ritter, 26, said.

"They named three more (men who were killed at the service), and one was Charlie's best friend."

"I went all to pieces," Rhonda Ritter said.

Rhonda Ritter received a telephone call from her husband two days later, and her support group raised $80 for her to drive the family truck to Scott AFB Medical Center to see her husband.

Ft. Riley is located in the northeastern part of Kansas, about a six-and-a-half hour drive from Scott, she said.

While she was visiting her husband at the Medical Center, Rhonda Ritter met John and Teresa Parks and Bob and Alice Harding. Both men are in the U.S. Navy and stationed at Scott AFB.

"They told us about Desert HomeFront," she said.

Desert HomeFront is a non-profit organization, set up by local people to assist families of military personnel involved in the Persian Gulf War.

Rhonda Ritter said she had not heard of any other organization like Desert HomeFront.

"They (Desert HomeFront) gave me $250 for my hotel and for this trip, and they said they would see what they could do about my phone bill," Rhonda Ritter said.

Dotti Earp, whose husband is stationed at Scott and is still in the Persian Gulf, is one of the organizers of Desert HomeFront.

"We've helped 46 families and have dispersed more than $13,500," Earp said.

The help has been given to families like the Ritters, who need help for travel or telephone. The help has also been given to local people.

The money has been used to pay utilities or to keep the telephone connected, or to pay for child care, Earp said.

And the donations, which continue to come in, are still needed, Earp said.

Wounded soldiers are still at Scott AFB, Earp said.

Ritter said he expects to stay at the Medical Center for about three more weeks before returning to Ft. Riley.

Group helps needy GIs

By Liz Quirin
Staff writer

When Desert HomeFront was formed as a nonprofit organization to help families of military personnel sent to the Persian Gulf, no one knew what the result would be.

"I guess I wasn't prepared for the response," said Dotti Earp, one of the co-directors of Desert HomeFront.

Local community donations to the organization have been steady with some large and some small, Earp said.

"They've come in and come in and come in," Earp said. "It makes me feel absolutely great to see the love and caring out there."

The people in the communities who have responded with donations to Desert HomeFront have made a real impact on the lives of the people they have helped, said John Barrett, a co-director of Desert HomeFront.

So far, Desert HomeFront has dispersed more than $13,500 to 46 families who needed help because a family member was sent to the Persian Gulf, Earp said.

Requests for help have slowed down some, but they are remaining steady, Barrett said.

"There is still a need out there, and people are still calling in," Barrett said.

Some people who have been helped, called Desert HomeFront to thank them.

"There's a grandmother watching her daughter's children; she's on disability; her electricity, gas and telephone were going to be cut off, and her daughter was in the Army and sent to the Gulf in Desert Storm," Earp said.

Desert HomeFront stepped in with a donation to keep the utilities on and the telephone in service.

"She called to thank us, crying and wanting to know how to pay the money back," Earp said. "I told her it was a grant, and it made her cry even harder."

Locally, Desert HomeFront paid utilities and bought perishable food for a grandmother in Mascoutah who was caring for her son's child.

"He's (son) in the 82nd Airborne and a single parent," Earp said.

When he came back, the soldier called to thank Desert HomeFront.

"He said he wasn't prepared for the support because people who didn't even know them helped," Earp said. "He said he would put something back because somebody else might need the help."

Sharon Owens of Aultenberg Ford is also a co-director of Desert HomeFront.

Businesses, organizations and individuals have contributed.

State police official joins 911 board

Saying that the state police should be involved with 911 "for a lot of good reasons," Lt. Terry Zeisset joined the board Thursday as an adviser. The state police already play a big role in responding to emergencies.

Cellular phone systems, offered by both Cybernet and Southwestern Bell, will not be converted to 911, said C. William Grogan, of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, which serves as project consultant. Cellular phone customers can summon emergency assistance by dialing 511 in Illinois and 311 in Missouri, Zeisset said. Those calls are fielded by the state police and the Missouri Highway Patrol.

Working with the state police should help eliminate duplicated efforts, particularly with the Madison County Sheriff's Department, Highland Police Chief William Pierce, 911 board member, said.

Edgar may reconsider SIUE funds

Gov. Jim Edgar has agreed to take another look at his decision to freeze financing to construct an art and design building at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville.

Sen. Sam Vadala, D-Edwardsville, met with Edgar April 10 to argue for release of $4.7 million for the building, which would replace the century-old Wagner Complex.

"It's a disgrace and a public hazard for anyone to walk in there, let alone have classes here," Vadala said.

Vadala showed the governor a stack of SIUE photographs depicting deep cracks in walls and other disrepair at the Wagner Complex, a former factory several miles from the main campus.

He said Edgar did not seem to be aware of the poor condition of the building or that a second bid opening for the new building had been scheduled for February.

Vadala said Edgar told him he would have Sally Jackson, director of government operations, "give this project a second look."

Edgar made no commitment to release the money, however. The building was among dozens of state projects that Edgar announced last month would be delayed at least into the fiscal year starting July 1.

The initial bids on the arts building were rejected because they were too high. — From the Alton Telegraph

U.S. may help county

Federal prosecutors may help take some of the pressure off the crowded Madison County Jail.

Suspects in weapons and drug cases may face federal charges rather than state charges, State's Attorney William Haine told members of the county board's Judiciary Committee April 10.

"We are working with the U.S. attorney's office to charge as many drug and gun charges as we can under the federal code," he said.

State charges would be dismissed against some suspects, Haine said.

It would be speculative to say how much difference this would make, Haine said. Three cases are under consideration now, he said.

Pierce and Edwardsville Director of Police Bennett Dickmann said the county needs to take advantage of IREACH, the Illinois Regional Emergency Access Channel.

IREACH licenses are available to all public service answering points (PSAPs) in the 911 system. The special radio frequency broadcasts to all police, fire and ambulance service providers for a nominal fee, Pierce said.

"It's just a matter of programming the channel in," Pierce said. The 16 departments throughout the county who have agreed to serve as PSAPs would eventually be reimbursed for the expense of IREACH from 911 funds, Pierce said.

IREACH is similar to ISPERN, the Illinois State Police Emergency Response Network, which is fully financed by the state. The frequency of that network, however, is available only to law enforcement agencies and used only when certain types of crimes are committed, such as an armed robbery where a suspect has fled, Pierce said.

Pierce and Dickmann both say the value of IREACH is that it would allow any number of agencies who might be in the area of an emergency to respond.

"Any one of 25 agencies could be within feet of an emergency and never know it," Pierce said. "People don't care what color the uniform is, they just want someone to help them."

The responding department would not be ultimately responsible for handling the emergency where there's a question of jurisdiction, Dickmann said.

"They would be there to stabilize the situation until the proper agency came along," Dickmann said.

Fitzgerald to replace Dalton on county board

COLLINSVILLE — James Fitzgerald, a Democratic precinct committeeman who lives on West Clay Street in Collinsville, is expected to be named Wednesday to replace Fred Dalton on the Madison County Board.

County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer confirmed Friday he will nominate Fitzgerald, and the rest of the board is expected to ratify the appointment.

Fitzgerald will serve until November 1992, when Dalton's term was to expire. Dalton was elected Collinsville mayor April 2.

Fitzgerald could not be reached for comment.

Day care activity programs are subject of workshop

To gain more information on planning appropriate activities for multi-age groups in center and family day care settings, area residents may attend a special workshop next week in Edwardsville.

The telenet workshop, "Activities for Multi-Age Groups," sponsored by the University of Illinois Extension Service, will be held from 7-9 p.m. Thursday, April 25. The workshop will be held at the Madison County Farm Bureau Auditorium, 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsville.

Those interested in participating must pre-register by Friday, April 19.

For more information, call the University of Illinois Extension Service, 636-6800.

Michael Anthony Bazzell Jr., 38, of Mitchell died at 9:35 a.m. Sunday, April 14, at a residence at 4378 Highway 162 in Nameoki Township.

He was pronounced dead by Special Investigator Ed Morton of the Madison County Coroner's Office. An investigation is being conducted, with a preliminary finding that no criminal act was involved.

Born Dec. 15, 1972, in Granite City, Mr. Bazzell was a lifelong Quad City area resident.

A laborer for one year in general construction, he was of the Protestant faith.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra (Melody) Garrett of Mitchell, his father, Michael A. Bazzell Sr., of Granite City, two sisters, Michelle Lynn Bazzell and Tammy Dawn Bazzell, both of Granite City, one half brother, Michael Anthony Bazzell of Granite City, one half sister, Toni Rene Bazzell of Granite City, three stepbrothers, Tony Garrett of St. Clair, Mo., and Bryan Garrett and Chris Garrett, both of Granite City, and his grandmother, Betty Fudge of Granite City.

Visitation was held from 4 to 9 p.m. Tuesday at Werner Chapel for Funerals, 3909 Lake Drive, Pontoon Beach, where services will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday with the Rev. Gas Fatter officiating. Burial will be at Holy Cross Cemetery in Fairview Heights.

Blevins

Gilbert "Gaby" Blevins, 31, of Collinsville died at 1:04 a.m. on Tuesday, April 16, 1991, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Born Aug. 10, 1959, in Wright, Ark., he was a resident of the Quad City area for many years. Mr. Blevins was a chemist in Mount Vernon, Ill., retiring in 1983. He was a member of the Southern Baptist church and was a U.S. Marine Corps veteran.

Survivors include two sons, Jeffrey and James Blevins, both of Du Quoin, Ill.; three stepchildren, Michelle Corry of Cahokia and Christopher Gorby and Shawn Gorby, both of Edwardsville; one brother, Rodney Blevins of Englewood, Ill.; and three sisters, Pearl Dean of Scott City, Mo., Porcia Denham of Pontoon Beach, and Maria Smith of Troy.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Ralph and Reva (Pike) Blevins.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Werner Chapel for Funerals, 3909 Lake Drive, Pontoon Beach, 797-1009.

Jones

Ralph S. Jones, 47, of East St. Louis died at 3 a.m. Friday, April 12, 1991, at St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis.

Lady Warriors blank McCluer North, 2-0

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The Lady Warriors were playing their fifth game in five days on Monday, but they didn't show any signs of fatigue.

Instead, Granite City put on a strong defensive showing and blanked McCluer North 2-0 at Memorial Stadium. The Lady Warriors (7-1), who have won all of their games by shut out, held the Stars to only two shots on goal.

McCluer North's (5-4) best scoring chance came late in the second quarter on a direct kick in the penalty area, but Tammy Mahler's shot was blocked by the defense.

"Our play on the backline has been getting better," Granite City coach Gene Baker said. "Our girls are marking their people very well. We're not allowing the opposition to penetrate in the penalty area to get a good shot off."

Rubbing salt in the wound for McCluer North was a quick goal by Suzanne Stuart, her fourth in two games, which put Granite City on top to stay. Stuart, taking a feed from Amanda Witter, scored from the right side of the penalty area on a floating shot that landed behind goalkeeper, Trish Schulte.

That goal came at the five minute mark of the opening period; something McCluer North coach Dave Carpenter wanted to prevent.

"We came in with the idea of holding Granite City without a goal for the first 10 minutes of the game," Carpenter said. "They have such an outstanding team, and they do a great job of playing with the lead. Once they got on top, their people did an excellent job of controlling the midfield area. We never got anything started offensively."

Fortunately for Carpenter and the Stars, Schulte was sharp between the pipes. She faced 17 shots and made five outstanding saves during the game. Schulte made an excellent point-blank stop in the fourth quarter when Granite City was applying constant pressure on the net.

"If Granite City was playing their fifth game in five days, it certainly didn't show," Carpenter said. "Those girls came at us the entire game. They created a lot of scoring chances and made us work on defense."

"McCluer North has a very good team," Baker said. "They've done pretty well for themselves this season against some of the best teams in the area. But we felt keeping them in a defensive frame of mind would eliminate their rushes on offense."

The Stars did manage to poke the ball through Granite City's wall in the midfield area a couple of times, but the defensive play of Angela Blasson, Angela Parker, Kami Kassel and Michelle Knox thwarted those efforts.

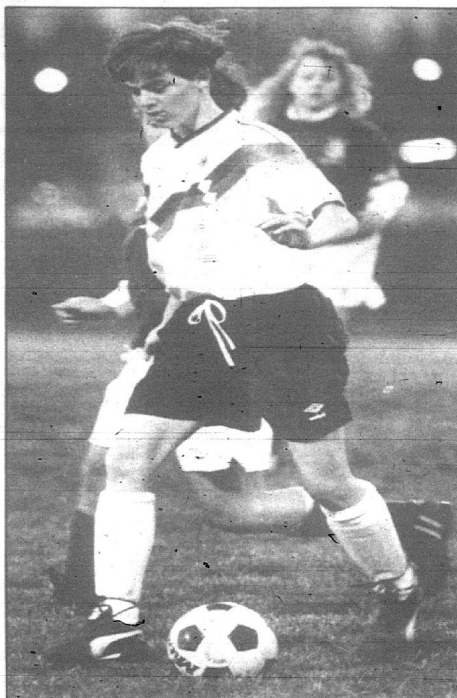

"Those girls did a nice job of pivoting around their people to pick up the loose ball anytime McCluer tried to push the ball up the field," Baker said. "We've got a young team with 11 sophomores and three freshmen, but they have the potential to be a very good team."

Addie Lenzi, a senior midfielder, who brings experience and a steady influence to the frontline, has seen the team's desire to win.

"This may be a young group, but they're hungry," Lenzi said. "I'm not saying our past teams didn't want to win, but this group is very aggressive. They make things happen on the field."

That aggressiveness came to the forefront in the second quarter. Leading 1-0, Stuart netted her second goal of the game on a feed from Brooke Barkman at the 36 minute mark of the first half.

"Suzanne is gaining the confidence to be a fine goal scorer," Baker said. "She's only a sophomore, but she has a lot of savvy on the field. Her style of finding

Mr. First Nighter still young, enthusiastic

By Dennis Barnidge

C'est moi, again, Mr. First Nighter, your tuxedoed, but-smoothing, m-servant about town, who knows all and makes up the rest.

STADIUM-CLUBBING: Red-bird prey Fred "Mr. Kuhlman" Kuhlman was in fine fettle as he oversaw a season-opening gathering of Our Town's swells at the Stadium Club the other night. The distinguished Cardinals topper was bubbling with excitement over the upcoming season.

"We all feel — Mr. Bush told me this right after he said to get out of his chair — the key to this season is youth. We're so young and enthusiastic. We have young players at all the outfield positions, at third base, at catcher and up and down the pitching staff. We love having all these young men because, well, because it's such a great excuse. I mean, if we weren't young, we'd just be another flop."

That said, the debonair exec checked his watch and bolted for the elevator. "The Pestalozzi Street Gang is due any minute, and you know they hate to wait for somebody to come and park their cars."

MEDIA MAYENS: Hard to believe, but that wasn't dirty rap maven 2 Live Crew working the far back of the room. No, it was the Stepford announcers, better known as the KMOX radio sports staff, working on its patter for this week's home opener. "They're young and enthusiastic," said Ron Jacober. "Ditto," offered young Joe Buck. "Oh-huh," offered Mike Kelly. "So young," chimed in Jim Holder.

SIGHT 'EM: KMOX demigod Robert Hyland said he was sorry to say that "Morning Meeting" co-host Charles Brennan would not be able to make the festivities. "Kevin Brennan neglected to dress in conicals so I'm afraid Charles had no way in tonight," he said, hastening to add that was not meant to reflect negatively on Brennan, who he described as "young and enthusiastic."

Fortunately, theater-movie-restaurant N.Y.-deli-vending-machine-wine critic Joe Pollack was able to drop in. "Young and enthusiastic, with a delightful hint of whimsy," he said before slipping on his blinders in preparation for reviewing another flick.

LET'S GO MR. FIRST-NIGHTING: St. Louis U. AD-ette Deborah Yow emerged from a meeting with City Comptroller Virvius Jones enthused about the chances of the Billikens receiving some primo dates when the new Kiel Center opens. "We had a lovely get-together. In the middle of a story about serving with Gen. George Patton in Germany during World War II, he said I could just drop off a list of any six or eight Saturday nights we wanted and he'd take care of it."

Likewise upbeat was SLU hoop honcho Rich Grawer. The man who saved Billikens basketball said he was beginning getting the knack of walking three strides behind Yow. He waved off reports of front office friction saying instead that his relationship with the Iron Lady AD was evolving. "When Debbie first took over she used to call me five times a day in a shrill voice."

IRON MIKE: Redbirds' broadcaster/self-important puffbucket Mike Shannon had a table of brewery officials nearly falling off their chairs with laughter as he again launched into his imitation of Cardinals slugger Pedro

How well they turn will determine how much money major league baseball clubs will offer after the June draft.

May has been involved in similar matters in recent years, when catcher Cliff Williams signed for what amounted to $40,000 and a guaranteed college scholarship. But how good are Bush and Creer?

"I've had at least seven scouts tell me they were in the top 50 in the country," said May.

Regardless of that, my dad would have enjoyed stepping off the distance of their home runs. They easily are in the top 50 in that category at O'Fallon High.

Flyer tandem impressive at plate

By Art Vollinger
Correspondent

I thought of my late father the other day because he liked to step off the long home runs he saw at amateur baseball games.

He'd see a shot and then walk to where the ball landed. If he said, "It was over 400 feet," it came much closer without stretching a tape measure from the batter's box.

My goodness, how Pop would have enjoyed walking off three home runs hit by a pair of East St. Louis Flyers in a game at O'Fallon recently.

The first came in the first inning by lefthanded-hitting second baseman Jerry Creer, whose blast landed in the parking lot beyond the right field fence.

"How far, Art?" asked one of the major league scouts in attendance.

"There are no signs on the outfield fences indicating yardage distance. My estimate, though, was 390 feet, since where the ball left the park was close to the right-center field area — where eventually a sign indicating 333 feet will be attached."

An inning later, Creer, who has been ranked with teammate Homer Bush in the top 50 of the country's prep players, doubled and was clocked by one scout at 3.1 seconds to first base.

Still, the highlight of the Flyers' offense came from Bush, who homered twice and brought the scouts out of their seats with a leadoff blast in the third inning.

The 5-foot-9, 180-pounder's shot not only left the O'Fallon field, but it flew across Smiley Street in left field and landed between two houses facing the diamond.

Keepers of the O'Fallon pitching chart comically drew a spot and an arrow at a point far off a photocopy of baseball diamond.

This distance? My estimate was close to 430 feet, since the ball cleared the fence at about 330 and had to travel close to another 100 feet.

If he was upset by being called out on strikes in the first inning, Bush left no doubt of his revenge in the fourth when his two-run homer to dead center field crashed through the branches of a tree just beyond the fence and landed in Smiley Street.

That shot, the East Side deficit to 6-3, but little more was to come for the Flyers as O'Fallon rallied for a 15-5 victory that included home runs by center fielder Walter "Smiley" Owens and third baseman Chris McCullum.

"We don't have much pitching, but we can hit," was the explanation given by Flyer coach Art Voller, who has been doubled by scouts inquiring about his middle infielders, both all-state football players.

"They each signed college football scholarships with stipulations that they could play baseball also," said May.

Will wide receiver Bush go to Missouri and running back Creer go to Western Illinois?

"They both love baseball," said May, a former pro catcher who knows as well as anyone watching the hitting displays at O'Fallon that eventually a decision will have to be made between the sports.

"They both can turn on a ball," said May. "How well they turn will determine how much money major league baseball clubs will offer after the June draft."

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

Horse racing returns to Fairmount

By Jim Woodcock
Staff writer

The folks at Fairmount Park aren't suggesting that fans hardy recognized the track when the thoroughbred racing season opened Friday in Collinsville. But they're confident that the improvements were noticed. And appreciated.

Actually, a lot of the investments we've made here are obvious," track public relations director Mary Ozanic said last week. "But a lot of the changes will be noticeable. And we're only three-fourths done."

The major overhaul at the track—the transformation of the Top of the Mile Club to the Top of the Turf Club—will be complete by May 1, when the new club opens. The slight change in names for the clubhouse's third-floor eatery actually represents a large portion of $1.7 million in renovations to the 65-year-old track.

The Top of the Turf will be open to the public, and it will be an upscale place, Ozanic said. "No jeans or tennis shoes will be allowed. It'll be a real nice restaurant and lounge area where people can bet and watch the races."

On the same level as the new facility will be 36 new luxury boxes, which will also be opened May 1. Only eight boxes are still available at prices ranging from $3,000 to $4,000, depending on their location over the track.

A major change in place is a new clay-based track surface. Fairmount hired Kentucky track expert Gary Owens, who remains here as the track superintendent, to install the $25,000-plus surface.

"It's superior," Ozanic said. "We've never had it play like before. It helps with drainage and track consistency, and it will be very important to handicapping."

Meanwhile, handicappers figure to have easier access to the track thanks to asphalt-paved driveways into and throughout the parking lot. The driveways have been widened, Ozanic said. "We've had problems before with people trying to leave inter-track during the day running into people trying to get in for live racing at night," Ozanic said. "Now everyone can egress and ingress, and there's more room for horse trailers."

Once in the lot, users of valet parking will find a canopy over the drop-off area near the grandstand's main entrance. And all fans will enter through a new turnstile system which Ozanic says will help implement programs for frequent customers and pass users.

Throughout the track, the brown and orange scheme has been replaced with a blend of green and beige. The look of the tote boards has been refurbished to improve clarity of the numbers, and the wooden fencing around the oval has been replaced with a cleaner-looking plastic model.

"If it stood still, it was painted," Ozanic said. "I had someone call the other day from a car phone on Interstate 255, wanting to know what was different about the track. You can tell it from there."

Other changes include: A new reserve seating section with a computerized ticket system which will allow patrons to make advance reservations.

The move of tables and chairs from the old Top of the Mile Club to the grandstand.

That'll provide table seating for nearly 500 in the grandstand, Ozanic said.

There is even a change in policy. Fairmount now offers free mezzanine seating Tuesdays through Thursdays.

The track has been pretty much torn up during the harness season to get ready for this, but no one seemed to mind," Ozanic said. "We had a fairly good harness season."

The harness season at Fairmount ended Sunday. Thoroughbred personnel started moving in soon after.

Bobby Pace is back as Fairmount Park's thoroughbred racing secretary.

The springtime McDonald's Chart Series that has gained popularity among horsemen and fans in recent years is being expanded this season.

The series, which has traditionally featured the track's racing favorites like Buckbean and Battle Cat, will be a 14-race event this season with an overall purse of $145,000. In past seasons the series featured four overnight handicaps at $10,000 each, with $5,000 in trainers' awards.

"The horsemen are very excited about it," said track public relations director Mary Ozanic. "There will be 14 races with separate divisions for age and sex. The trainers and horses people know well will be taking part in it."

Fairmount will also feature 15 stakes races with $60,000 in purse money. The jewel is the $150,000-guaranteed Fairmount Derby, a Grade III event set for Saturday, Aug. 24.

Fairmount's racing schedule throughout the meet will be Tuesdays at 1:30 p.m. and Wednesdays through Saturdays at 7:30 p.m. Admission is the same as last season: $2 for grandstand and $3 for clubhouse.

The track will hold three special 1:30 p.m. Saturday starts to coincide with the Triple Crown races on May 5 (Kentucky Derby), May 18 (Preakness Stakes) and June 8 (Belmont Stakes).

New look racing programs, which will now feature past performances, are $1 each.

Intertrack racing from Sportsman's Park continues daily (except Tuesdays) at 1 p.m. through May 11. Intertrack from Arlington Park begins May 12, with racing cards daily (except Tuesdays) at 1:30 p.m.

For more information call 345-4300 (Illinois) or 436-1516 (Missouri).

The Twin Super and Super Bingo, highlights of the most recent thoroughbred and harness seasons, respectively, returned together at Fairmount on Friday.

The Twin Super made news during the 1990 thoroughbred season when the rollover jackpot reached $661,811.80 before being won by three men from Chesterfield.

Bettors have to pick the trifecta in the third race and the top four finishers, in order, in the fifth race to hit the Twin Super.

Winners of the trifecta in the third race cash that ticket and receive a voucher to bet the Twin Super in the fifth race.

The amount in the jackpot rolls over to the next day when no one correctly picks the seven horses.

Super Bingo, a nationwide game which was played here during the harness season, will be featured during the thoroughbred season.

Fans get a card upon entering the track. Numbers are called after each race, and $10,000 is awarded for a cover all in 48 or fewer numbers called.

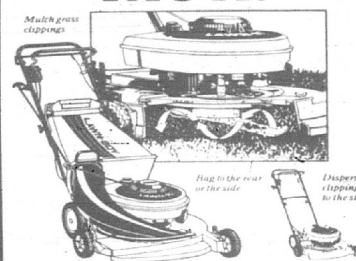

The numbers are called via satellite from Dallas.

AAU all-star basketball game held at BAC

By Scott Marlon
Staff writer

March Madness is over. Now it's time for April All-Stars.

Some of the area's best prep basketball players will compete at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Belleville Area College, in a match-up of two Amateur Athletic Union teams.

Waterloo High School coach Dave Shanahan is in charge of the 19-under team. Waterloo Gibault's Dennis Rueler coaches the 17-under team.

"This is a fun group to coach," said Shanahan, former head coach at BAC, O'Fallon and Belleville West. "These are some of the best players I've had in quite a while."

"We played a warm-up tournament in Hillsboro and had a game against Columbia's 17-under kids, but we haven't had that many practices. You can tell which kids have played together."

The 19-under team includes Collinsville's Kyle Jones, Mike Chaney and Tony Cavalletti; Lebanon's Doug Schieppie; O'Fallon's L.P. Willis; Mascoutah's Eric Robinson and Jason Schneider; Westview's Doug Feldt, Don Madenwald and Chad Deiters; and Freeburg's Jim Janssen and Kevin Sandheinrich.

"Jones is a good rebounder and Deiters and Madenwald are better players than I realized," Shanahan said. "I knew Robinson and Schneider were good players. Janssen is a good ball-handler."

Shanahan's team plays in an AAU tourney next month at Ritenour High School in St. Louis. It hopes to qualify for the 19-under nationals, to be held in Florida in late July.

Assistant coaches for the 19-under team are former Belleville West junior varsity coach Woody Burnett and Waterloo assistant Dave Hopper.

Collinsville junior Richard Keene heads the 17-under team, which also includes O'Fallon's Brian Blazier, Brian Chamberlain, Rodney Byrd, Andrew Davidson, and Paul Tolden; Gibault's Bret Kruse and Marc Derwort; Red Bud's Jason Mallott; Lincoln's Derrick Bogay and Belleville West's Matt Osborne.

"Dan Blazier had an AAU team last year," said Rueter, who is assisted by Blazier. "At that time, we had a couple good sophomores in Kruse and Derwort, plus Mallott and some O'Fallon kids."

"That team got to the top 24 at nationals. We picked up some depth with guys like Bogay, and Richard Keene is just a great player."

"We're not huge inside, but we have three kids who are pretty close to 6-7."

Rueter's team easily won a 17-under preliminary tournament (See Stars Page 48) the open spot on the field has created those scoring chances."

But Carpenter feels Granite City has the depth to play with anyone in the area.

"Gene is loaded with talent," Carpenter said. "That's why they didn't seem tired out on the field. He always carries a big squad and all of those girls can contribute, in one way or another. There's no question Gene has the talent, but he knows how to use all of his players."

"That's why I take a lot of my coaching philosophies from him."

But while many might consider Granite City a state-bound team in this area, Baker is taking things in stride.

"It's too soon for our girls to set their sights on the state tournament," Baker said. "That's a long ways away from where we're at right now. My main concern is getting our girls in the proper frame of mind for the post-season."

NOTES: Granite City captured the consolation trophy at the Soccer Fest over the weekend at the Soccer Park in St. Louis.

After they lost the opening game to Oakville on Friday, the Lady Warriors came bouncing back to win two games on Saturday. Granite City knocked off Springfield Sacred-Heart Griffin 2-0 in the consolation semifinals and blanked Quincy 5-0 in the consolation finals. Witter scored a pair of goals against Quincy.

Cards could do worse than re-signing Ozzie

By Jack Farmer
Staff writer

Hand Ozzie Smith one of those souvenir baseball bat pens with the Cardinals' birds and bat logo. Please sign here.

The Cardinals would be nuts not to re-sign him. Skeptical? OK, then do it for no other reason than because nobody else wants him. If you're a Cardinals' fan, consider yourself lucky.

Or, there must be something really weird happening here. Who wouldn't want Smith, even a year?

He won his 11th straight Gold Glove last season. He lives up to the team's offensive expectations. He was named the Cardinals' smartest player in a poll of major league managers. Those aren't taken citations.

What's the big rush with moving Jose Quiroga to short anyway? Jump to next year. The Cardinals hope to contend. Will Geronimo Pena be any better than Smith, who will be 37?

I don't get it. Baseball's Einstein (at the red tape price of roughly $2.4 million annually) being shopped for a low-price prospect.

Smith is not your everyday aging ball player. Look at Keith Hernandez for that. Smith is Superman in a 160-pound frame. Last I heard, he wasn't planning on retiring soon.

It's contract time for the Oz. He can go anywhere after this season if the Cardinals don't execute their option.

Execute.

There's a lot of new blood on this team, but Smith still is the heart. He will pump to a fine year. And don't buy that bull from either side of the club being Mr. Nice Guy and sending Smith to a contender in his final days.

I'm sure the Oz, given a raise, would be plenty happy here.

There's nothing neater than the home-town-kid-comes-home-in-glory story. University City's Bernard Gilkey Thursday will experience his first home-opener in Busch Stadium—as a player, that is.

He's not overly excited.

"It's just another ball game," said Gilkey, 24. "I think I got that (home-crowd-glitters) out of the way in September. It's work for me now."

Gilkey sometimes sits back and laughs in wonderment when he thinks about playing in the major leagues. He got a taste last September, seeing action in 18 games. Now, after six years in the minors, he's finally home living a dream.

Gilkey said he's not thinking about individual accolades.

"I just want to be on a winning ball club and prove some people wrong about this team," he said. "It's not an individual effort."

Does Rex Hudler remind anyone else of Bart Simpson? He's animated, always causing trouble and has his own T-shirt.

It shouldn't be long before Scott Terry is back in the starting rotation. The Jamie Moyer/Omar Olivares Experiment No. 5 looks like it's on its way to a big zero. Fans probably won't see the team sprint to many five-game winning streaks with that duo. Might as well throw Terry back out there as the spot starter. He can hit, anyway.

Gen. H.T. Johnson will throw out the first ball Thursday night. Working out of Scott Air Force Base, Johnson was responsible for transportation of all the military personnel, supplies and equipment used in Operation Desert Shield/Storm. "The Star Spangled Banner" will be played by seven members of the St.

more Orioles organization.

"Rodney developed more when he played in college (Grambling University)," said May. "Homer is more advanced as a high school player."

When told of the 3:1 timing for Creer, May noted that Bush is the faster of the two by "a little bit."

OVERTIME: Noted in this spring's University of Missouri baseball guide, "Baseball is one of two sports in which Mizou has won a national championship."

Among the players in a photo of the 1954 NCAA champs is catcher Lloyd Elmore, a long-time teacher-coach at Belleville East. Among Elmore's teammates was pitcher Norm Stewart, who threw a no-flutter long ball, rejecting criticism as the Tigers' basketball coach.

Annual job fair for handicapped

Some of the bi-state area's biggest employers, along with federal, state and local agencies, will be represented at the annual Job Fair for the Handicapped on Friday from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Granite City Elks building, 4801 Maryville Road.

Persons with a disability or handicap are to attend and receive information on job opportunities.

A luncheon will be served to employers, and awards will be presented to the employer and employee of the year.

Coterie installs new members

Ladies Coterie held its March 21 meeting in the church parlor at the First Presbyterian Church, Granite City. Dessert and coffee were served by the hostess, Mrs. A.C. Watkins, to 24 members.

Mrs. Richard Schwendemann, president, presided over the meeting. The Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America was led by the secretary, Mrs. Leonard Oram.

Schwendemann conducted the installation of two new members, Denise Wright, sponsored by Mrs. Floyd Henley, and Guy-let Stewart, sponsored by Mrs. W.C. Watkins and Mrs. David Jahn.

After the candlelight installation, the club collect was repeated in union.

A letter of appreciation was read by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Charlie Delpe, from Maguerite Barker for the Christmas donation to Ladies Coterie to the Old Six Mile Museum. Thank you notes were received from Mrs. W.G. Cooley and Mrs. Peter Novacek for gifts and get-well cards they had received regarding their illness.

Mrs. Alfred Pape reported on a tea and reception held in her home on March 13 for 15 new members and officers. Schwendemann gave a brief history of Ladies Coterie and John reviewed the By-Laws. Refreshments were served by Pape and letter openers she had collected in her travels around the world were given to guests as gifts.

The Spring Conference of the GFWC Illinois 22nd District was held at the Roundhouse in Wood River on March 29. Barker, Schwendemann and Mrs. Harold Briggs were in attendance.

Mrs. W.C. Watkins, Pape, and Schwendemann were honored for their birthdays during March. Members were reminded that dues will be collected at the April meeting.

Mrs. Marvin Eddington and Mrs. Raymond Horn reported that reservations have been made at Rusty's Restaurant in Edwardsville for the May 16 Guest Day and Installation of Officers. Cost of the luncheon will be $6.00 and may be paid at the April meeting at the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Dawson Wade, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Charles Lexow who presented the program for the afternoon. Slides were shown Lexow's 1990 vacation trip, taken with her husband, daughter and grandson, to Greece, Turkey, Bulgaria, and Russia via bus and cruise ship.

From The Garden

Controlling crabgrass requires effort, time

By Glenn Kopp

Crabgrass is a common summer lawn weed which can easily become the bane of bluegrass and fescue yards.

Crabgrass was originally introduced by the Department of Agriculture as a forage grass for cattle, and it has since spread throughout the country. It grows from seed each year and develops sprawling, wiry stems which radiate out and smother other cultivated grasses.

It's difficult to control once it has become established—the seed produced in any given year can remain viable for the next 10 years. Given proper soil temperature, moisture and light conditions, new seed will germinate and the annual problem continues.

Many low-maintenance lawn and park areas become overrun with crabgrass. If you have problems with crabgrass, several seasons of management may be necessary to bring it under control.

First, determine whether in fact you have crabgrass. Often confused with Bermuda and zoysia, crabgrass is identifiable by its heavy, straw-colored stems which prevail throughout the winter and the bare spots it leaves behind.

Generally, you will find it in sunny locations and in disturbed and compacted soils where other turf grasses do not grow well, such as around sidewalks, driveways and curbs. It is rarely a problem in shady spots and does not compete well with dense-growing zoysia.

Crabgrass produces finger-like seed heads and thousands of seeds toward the end of the season. The parent plants will die after the first hard frost, and the seeds lie on or become incorporated into the soil. In the spring, when the soil temperature rises to 55 to 60 degrees, the seed begins to germinate. In St. Louis, this happens on average about early to mid-April. After germination, rapid growth is common since the stems quickly root and become established.

With a little well-timed care, crabgrass can be controlled with a pre-emergent herbicide. This material prevents crabgrass seeds from germinating. In St. Louis, an application can be made in late March to mid-April. Generally, it is time to apply the pre-emergent when the forsythia begins to bloom. Pre-emergent herbicides such as Monsanto's Greensweep Crabgrass Preventer and Scott's Goosegrass/Crabgrass Control are two candidates for this job and are available at most garden and hardware stores.

When applying a crabgrass pre-emergent, a number of guidelines need to be followed to ensure control and prevent damage to surrounding plants. To be effective, the pre-emergent must come in contact with the soil, so raking the lawn to remove leaves, grass or trash may be necessary. Once the lawn is clean, even distribution of the herbicide is needed.

Most available pre-emergents are granules and are best distributed with a drop-type spreader. Broadcasting spreaders can be used in large areas but care should be taken not to throw the granules into vegetable or flowerered areas where seeds are located or will be planted.

The pre-emergent herbicides are effective with weeds and juvenile plants. But as plants grow into the four-leaf stage, you need to use a post-emergent herbicide, of which only a few are available to homeowners.

Once you start herbicide treatment to control crabgrass, it should not be necessary to use a pre-emergent every year. Crabgrass control depends upon good lawn care promoting cultivated grasses to form a dense growth to shade out the soil surface and minimize weed seed germination.

Good lawn nutrition with timely fertilizer applications in early summer and fall will favor the lawn growth over crabgrass. All this begins with a soil test. Frequent and shallow depth watering should be avoided and compacted soil should be aerated more regularly.

Horticulturist brings global issues home

Chemicals from lawn and garden applications seep into the ground water, endangering both people and wildlife. Homeowners need to change their gardening practices. Safe alternatives are not easily found. Terms are confusing. What does "natural" or "organic" really mean?

The Environmental Expo, to be held April 19-21, at Kiel Auditorium will address these issues. As part of the Expo, Ken Miller, noted St. Louis horticulturist and garden designer, will speak on safe gardening practices, pest control alternatives and composting. The lecture will be offered at 2, 3:30 and 4:30 p.m. Friday, April 19 and at 1 p.m. Sunday, April 21.

Miller will instruct homeowners on safe alternatives to chemical controls, spot-control methods for weeds and pests, and biological controls. He also will explain how composting can save landfill space while providing the garden with valuable nutrients. Participants will receive handouts and a $5 coupon good at many garden centers. Participants in the Sunday program will be entered in a drawing for a compost maker and Nature's Way gardening products. Seminar admission is included in the $3 Expo entrance fee. This program is sponsored by Ferti-Lome, Turf Products and participating garden centers.

Arthritis concerns gardeners

Winter has passed, spring is here, and you can't wait to get into your garden.

Your mail-order seeds arrive, and so does a fine day. You assemble the digging tools, and get out on your grand plan for a vista of floral beauty and a harvest of home-grown vegetables.

You traipse back to the back yard, kneel down, and start to dig. Alas, it's not very long before you are beset with pain in your fingers, your wrists, your feet. You pause for a while and the pain subsides; then you resume your activities, but the pain returns. Your knees give you the most agony. Your foot joints hurt a lot. So you call a doctor, hoping it will only be a temporary disruption, and arrange to see a family or podiatric medical physician.

The diagnosis: arthritis, which strikes one of every seven of us from children to senior citizens. Arthritis is a frequent component of more than 100 disease systems whose common characteristic is inflammation of the lining and ligaments of the body's joints. In some cases, arthritis is a relatively minor problem, but in most instances the inflammation brings about swelling, redness, heat and pain.

The doctor of podiatric medicine, who often responds to a complaint of heel or arch pain, stiffness or swelling, is frequently the first doctor to see the early signs of arthritis.

Generally speaking, treatment of arthritis is appropriately a team effort, with a variety of specialists involved; a podiatrist who is the first to identify the disease will recommend further diagnosis and treatment, especially if complicating factors such as diabetes or circulatory disease are involved.

Some of the treatment tools a podiatrist might use in treating arthritic conditions are medication, physical therapy, exercise, orthoses (shoe insert devices), special shoes or surgery.

Marion Brooks

Education

Marion Brooks, who retired from the Kirkwood School District in 1984, tutors children in her home, runs a summer learning program in Wellston and holds discussion groups at the St. Louis Juvenile Detention Center.

She believes strongly that everyone deserves a chance to learn—a belief that has helped her teach students others considered "unteachable."

In 1985, with the goal of helping more children, she started a summer program in Wellston, teaching primarily students in grades three through six.

And every Tuesday afternoon for the past seven years Brooks has gone to the juvenile detention center for four hours to teach a course in human relations.

Brooks, 77, of Kirkwood, has received numerous awards over the years, including being named National Teacher of the Year in 1978. But she says most of her rewards come from her students.

"My rewards have always been my students—to see my students grow and with interaction with students," Brooks said. "And there are still students I keep in touch with."

Barbara Bridgewater

Volunteer Service

Barbara Bridgewater has incorporated her love for the fine arts into a busy schedule of volunteer activities.

Bridgewater, a mother of three who lives in Ladue, was instrumental in forming the women's committee of Forest Park Forever, and serves as co-chairman of that group. Forest Park Forever is a 69-member organization dedicated to making Forest Park "the premier urban park in the United States."

Bridgewater, 53, also is chairman of the 25th anniversary celebration for the Repertory Theatre of St. Louis and volunteers in many facets of the theater. Her other art-related pursuits include work with the Washington University Fine Arts Council, the St. Louis Arts and Education Council and the Opera Theatre of St. Louis.

"I guess this is what everybody says, but it (volunteer work) really does make St. Louis a better place to live," said Bridgewater, who graduated with a fine arts degree from the University of Oklahoma.

"You don't do volunteer work to get a pat on the back, but it's really very nice to be honored."

Elizabeth Danforth

Youth Enrichment

As official hostess at Washington University, Elizabeth "Ibby" Gray Danforth's days and nights are filled with entertaining and attending university functions—all to promote the university to heads of state, governors, contributors, parents and students.

Wife of the university's chancellor, William H. Danforth, she has been selected as one of 1990's Women of Achievement in the category of youth enrichment for her efforts.

Danforth has never lost sight of the students. She still takes courses at the university to learn first-hand what issues interest the students and devotes much of her time to taking students on tours of the area.

She also devotes her "free time" to enrich youth through her work at John Burroughs School and the American Camping Association.

Danforth, 61, is a camping enthusiast and has also become involved in the American Camping Association as a board member.

Danforth is a graduate of Wellesley College in Massachusetts. She has also served as president of the St. Louis Wellesley Club. In 1983, she was honored with the St. Louis Wellesley Award.

Jean Hamilton

Civic Responsibility

Judge Jean C. Hamilton, 45, has been a leader in her profession and in the community, having climbed further up the ladder in the federal court system than any other woman in St. Louis.

Hamilton, who is single, was the first woman to be appointed as a federal district judge in the Eastern District of Missouri, a job she said she enjoys.

"It's a reflection of our times," Hamilton said. "Women are professionals now. There's bound to be a first for everything. I think the important thing about it is hopefully the day will come when more people will follow that are qualified. Not to downplay the honor, but the important thing about it is to open the doors for other women."

Hamilton also is involved with a variety of community programs, including the St. Louis Forum, a group of women leaders in the St. Louis area; the Missouri Women's Forum; the Grace Hill Settlement House and the College for Living.

1990 Women of Achievement

Exceptional group puts service first

The Suburban Journals and KMOX-AM (1120) proudly announce the selection of the 10 Women of Achievement who, through unselfish dedication, have made outstanding contributions to the community.

The women, who come from throughout the metropolitan area, join 251 other Women of Achievement who have received the honor since the program was started in 1955.

The awards will be presented to the 1990 winners during a noon luncheon May 17 at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in Clayton.

Reservations for luncheon tickets, which are $23 per person, may be ordered by sending a check to Women of Achievement, Suburban Journals, 1714 Deer Tracks Trail, St. Louis, 63131. Checks should be made payable to the Suburban Journals. The deadline for reservations is May 3.

Seating will be at tables of 10. For those wishing to sit together, reservations and payment for the group should be made at the same time. Those attending the luncheon on behalf of a particular honoree also should include the name of the honoree.

Kathe Hartley, traffic and news reporter for KMOX Radio, will serve as mistress of ceremonies at the luncheon.

Last year, more than 1,000 people attended the luncheon for the 1989 Women of Achievement. They were Aileen Auner, humanitarian concern; Sister Raymond Joseph Cordes, education; Judy Crowell, youth dedication; Helen Delicate, social responsibility; Joyce Rice Dunkelmann, senior adult services; Johann Ellerbrinke, health; Dudley Grove, volunteer services; Dorothy St. Clair, community service; Virginia Stith, historic preservation; and Joyce Thomas, civic responsibility.

Mary Ann Price

Human Concern

Mary Ann Price's career in special education and the disability-related field has spanned a quarter of a century.

Price, of north St. Louis County, is director of Disabilities Services at Lutheran Family and Children's Services of Missouri and serves as the executive director of the national Support Organization for Trisomy and Related Disorders.

Since coming to Lutheran Families in 1984, Price, 46, has developed two unique programs that benefit parents of children with disabilities.

Through birth crisis intervention, Price counsels parents immediately after their child is born, offering emotional support and linkage with key community resources. She also created "Enable Curriculum" for use in medical schools, which provides guidelines for physicians to use when they initially tell parents their children have disabilities.

Price, who has orthopedic congenital disabilities, is a role model both personally and professionally for others, said Neil Pape, vice president of Family Life Services.

"She daily demonstrates what can be accomplished by a person willing to meet the challenge of living with a major physical disability," Pape said.

Charlene Bry

Creative Philanthropy

For Charlene Bry of Ladue, the road to success has had more than a few curves.

After her children started school in the late 1960s, Bry, wife of sports agent Richie Bry, returned to college and began a journalism career, eventually becoming part-owner and publisher of the Ladue News.

She has used her publication to help various charitable organizations, from the St. Louis Society for Crippled Children to Kids Under Twenty One (K.U.T.O.), an organization interested in fighting drug and alcohol abuse among young people.

"People living in Ladue are genuinely interested in helping charities; my work and the Ladue News reflect that interest," Bry says.

Bry, 51, headed a local petition drive to keep ABC-TV's "Nightline" on the air in St. Louis. The effort succeeded, and Bry got a phone call and flowers from the show's anchor, Ted Koppel.

Bry also has donated her skills to the Missouri Botanical Garden, writing a chapter on the life of naturalist Henry Shaw for the botanical garden's book "A World of Plants."

"I would have to say that was my proudest accomplishment," Bry says.

Carolyn Chapman

Community Service

Friends and co-workers describe Carolyn Chapman's work in the community as selfless, dedicated, enthusiastic, unwavering and even inspirational.

But Chapman, 67, of Belleville, doesn't consider her achievements inspirational and said she merely worked hard to make her community a better place to live.

One of Chapman's biggest achievements was to help establish the St. Clair County Health Department, and acting as its chairman for the past four years.

Also on her list of achievements is helping to establish the St. Clair County Mental Health Board, starting the Specialized Living Center in Swansea for severely mentally handicapped adults and working with the League of Women Voters for 30 years.

"I did these things not because I was dissatisfied but because I believe in this country and I wanted to make it work right," Chapman said.

Rosa Campbell

Child Welfare

Rosa Campbell, executive director of Aunts and Uncles Inc. in north St. Louis, makes it possible for hundreds of youngsters each year to receive "good sturdy shoes without feeling ashamed."

The organization's motto is "Wear your shoes well. Hold your head high. You're not begging. We're giving."

Campbell left a good-paying job as Hugh Hefner's secretary in Los Angeles to continue the work first started by her brother Lawrence Albert in 1966.

The organization receives no governmental funding and relies entirely on donations for its operation.

Besides making sure youngsters have shoes to wear, Campbell, 57, shares her "Yes, I can" philosophy with their mothers. She talks to them about the struggles she faced while raising four children alone and how the mothers also can succeed if they believe in themselves.

Aunts and Uncles fills more than a physical need, Campbell said.

"Some kids come from environments where they don't see sharing, caring and genuine love," Campbell said. "When they come here, they feel somebody really cares about them."

Janet McAfee Weakley

Business & Community

Janet McAfee Weakley said she has been fortunate to have many opportunities come her way and enjoys sharing her good fortune by giving back to the community.

Weakley, president of the highly successful and prestigious Janet McAfee Inc. Real Estate, founded the firm in 1975. It since has grown from 11 agents and $6 million in sales volume to a company with more than 85 agents with sales in excess of $100 million. But she also has had many achievements in the community.

On top of working 40-plus hours a week at Janet McAfee Inc., she is a director of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, trustee of Barnes Hospital, honorary director of the Missouri Chapter of the Lupus Foundation of America, chairman of the Missouri Women's Forum, Greater Missouri Focus on Leadership, on the executive committee of the Regional Commerce and Growth Association, and involved in the Arts and Education Fund.

A former trustee for Mary Institute, Weakley, 61, has served as chairman of the Visiting Nurse Association and the Real Estate Board of Greater St. Louis.

Sister Mary Kevin Ford

Health

Sister Mary Kevin Ford has an impressive list of achievements in both her congregational and professional life.

After serving for 19 years as the general superior for the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet, she was appointed to the position of president of the order's Health Care Corp. In this capacity, she supervises a staff that works with 14 health-care institutions across the country.

In addition, Sister Ford, 71, has served on numerous boards, committees and delegations, including the Pope John XXIII Medical-Moral Research and Education Institute and a committee on social development and peace.

She also has published several articles, including "Glossary of Hospital and Health Care System Mergers, Acquisition and Consolidation" and "Casebook on Mergers and Consolidations."

Sister Ford was described by those nominating her as having "tremendous managerial and human insights." She responded only by saying, "There are a lot more deserving people than I."

Carolyn Chapman: Selfless, enthusiastic, inspirational

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

Friends and co-workers describe Carolyn Chapman's work in the community as selfless, dedicated, enthusiastic, unwavering and even inspirational.

But Chapman, 67, of Belleville, doesn't consider her achievements inspirational; she merely worked hard to make her community a better place to live, she said.

"I've been able to accomplish so many things because I have lived a long time and I don't give up," Chapman said.

One of Chapman's biggest achievements was to help establish the St. Clair County Health Department, and acting as its chairman for the past four years. Also, she helped establish the St. Clair County Mental Health Board and has worked with the League of Women Voters for 30 years.

For her tireless community service Carolyn Chapman has been chosen as one of the Women of Achievement and will be honored at the Journal's Women of Achievement banquet May 17.

Chapman, a mother of two and grandmother of seven, has volunteered her time and energy to so many organizations since she and her family moved to Belleville from Chicago in 1962, it is impossible to recount each of her contributions to the community.

Many of her contributions in recent years were made while she was caring for her late husband, Dr. Robert A. Chapman, who died of cancer.

Her work with the St. Clair County Health Department has received the most recognition

However, all of her efforts to better the community have been interrelated, she said. Many of her efforts can be traced back to her work with the League of Women Voters.

She worked for more than a decade with the League of Women Voters to establish a legitimate poll watching program in East St. Louis. The program helps ensure that all registered voters have the opportunity to cast a vote, and that the vote is counted properly.

To this day she still acts as a poll watcher herself, recently serving at a polling place in Centerville during local elections.

Through the League of Women Voters she has established many contacts in the community that have led her to work in other areas.

The league's interest in mental health issues, as well as a personal connection with the topic, helped her gain an appointment to the St. Clair County Mental Health Board in 1989. She was elected to chair the board from 1990 to 1991.

During that time she fought to establish nine new mental health programs including Belleville's Call for Help, which started as a suicide prevention hotline. The Women's Crisis Center, a shelter for abused women, and the Children's Center for Behavioral Development, a help center for severely troubled children.

Also she brought in $13 million in state and federal funding to the organization.

"The funds were all available to the organization, you just had to go out and get it," she said.

During the 1970s she served on then Gov. Dan Walker's committee for mental health. She helped to establish 10 specialized living centers — organizations to benefit severely mentally handicapped adults — throughout the state, including one in Swansea.

"I am very proud of it (the specialized living center)," she said. "It gets very high marks by the state when it is reviewed."

Through her work with the mental health board, and after seeing the poverty level in East St. Louis, Chapman was convinced that a health department was necessary in this area and she helped conduct several surveys on health services in the county to prove the need existed.

But establishing a department of this caliber was no easy task. Petitions with at least 10,000 signatures were required to place a tax levy for the health department on a ballot.

Chapman herself gathered 70 of the petitions, she said, only to find out a group of objectors had formed a board to block the levy from ever making it on the ballot.

Chapman had just about given up hope of starting a health department when state legislation was passed allowing county boards to establish local health organizations on the basis of county board approval alone.

She asked Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville, to help her convince the board that the county needed a health department. When Costello went before the board with the issue, it passed.

As chairman of the health department since 1988, Chapman has worked to start inoculation clinics, well children fitness clinics, restaurant inspections and landfill inspections.

"I did these things not because I was dissatisfied but because I believe in this country and I wanted to make it work right," Chapman said.

Elizabeth Danforth enriches students lives at Washington U.

By Jean Abernathy
Correspondent

There is no question that Washington University is an extremely valuable asset to the local community as well as the entire nation. Top notch students and faculty are drawn to this quality educational and research institution. Many lives have been enriched by the learning opportunities at Washington University.

For the past 20 years, the environment at Washington University has been enhanced by Elizabeth "Ibby" Gray Danforth. As the wife of Chancellor William H. Danforth, she works behind the scenes to promote Washington University to heads of state, governors, contributors, parents and students.

Selected as one of 1990's Women of Achievement in the category of Youth Enrichment, Danforth has never lost sight of the students. One way she gets to know students on a one-to-one basis is by enrolling in a course on a regular basis.

"I can be anonymous for about six weeks, then the word gets out," she said. "I like to be anonymous because it gives me an idea of what the students are concerned about."

By taking courses, Danforth hears, first-hand, the issues that interest students.

"Superficially, I also learn what clothes they like to wear," she said.

Danforth combines her enthusiasm for St. Louis with her role as the chancellor's wife when she entertains students at orientation.

"I want to give them a feel of where they are. I want to give them a feel that St. Louis is a river town," she said.

For six years, Danforth took students on a cruise on the President riverboat. Being on the Mississippi river is an ideal way for students to experience St. Louis, she said. A new riverboat is due to become the setting for these valuable outings.

Danforth is exuberant when she talks about the St. Louis community and lifestyle.

"We've got it all here without the extremes of both coasts. We are a little more refined in our pace," she said. "It is a wonderful place to raise children because of our mid-western values. You can afford to live here. You can afford to have a new house here. I don't know what we are lacking."

The Danforths reared their four children in St. Louis.

After a tour of Washington University, Danforth said visitors always want to go to the arch. If they are in town long enough she takes them to the Botanical Gardens, Art Museum, Missouri Historical Society and the St. Louis Zoo, if they have children. Also important are trips to the country, to Washington and Hermann.

"It gives them a different feel for what one group, the Germans, brought to the Midwest," she said.

Sister Ford modest about accomplishments

By Lois Kendall
Staff writer

Sister Mary Kevin Ford had only one thing to say when told she had been selected as a 1990 Woman of Achievement in the category of Health.

"There are a lot more deserving people than I."

Despite her impressive congressional and professional accomplishments, Sister Ford, 71, says simply, "That's my job — that's what I'm supposed to be doing."

Born in Delmar, N.Y., Sister Ford joined the order of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet in 1940. Over the next 30 years, she served as a nurse, educator and director of St. Mary's Hospital's School of Nursing.

In 1979 she moved to St. Louis as general superior of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet. Ten years later, she was named president of the order's Health Care Corp.

In that capacity, Sister Ford provides support services for 14 hospitals and nursing homes in 11 states throughout the country.

Besides her work with the Health Care Corp., Sister Ford serves on numerous national boards

Healthy foods that add fun turn teen frown to smile

The teen years can be a trying time for both parent and child. Often a constant battle is being waged, with many teenagers wanting to make all their own decisions.

Sometimes good eating habits fall victim to the quest for independence. Coupled with homework, outside activities and part-time jobs, a busy schedule can lead to many meals away from home where teens make their own food choices.

Because it is not possible to follow a teenager around to second-guess his eating decisions, it is important to concentrate on helping him learn healthy eating habits and make them at home. The knowledge will stick with him when eating out—for life.

Here are some strategies for teenagers:

Breakfast: Avoid high-fat foods like doughnuts, fried eggs, bacon and sausage. Instead, choose cereals with skim milk, bagels, English muffins and fruit. Go light on spreads like butter, margarine and cream cheese.

Lunch: Stick with lean meat or fish, vegetables and fresh fruit and sandwiches made with whole grain bread. At fast food restaurants, suggest a salad with chicken instead of fried chicken nuggets, a roast beef sandwich over a cheeseburger, a baked potato instead of French fries and a slice of cheese pizza over nachos. Salad bars are a good choice if high-fat additions and regular salad dressing can be avoided.

Dinner: Keep high-fat casseroles and frozen dinners to a minimum. Lean meat, poultry and fish are good choices. Always include a couple vegetable side dishes. Rice and potatoes are great, but do not overdo the butter or sour cream.

Snacks: The best are fresh fruit, air-popped popcorn, frozen fruit bars, low-fat yogurt, whole grain crackers and raw vegetables with low-fat dip.

Salsa is a traditional Mexican dip, is a favorite with many teenagers and is a great way to enjoy the taste and nutrition of fresh tomatoes. This recipe is flavorful but mild so the seasoning can be warmed up to suit a family's tastes.

Traditionally served with tortilla chips, salsa also is great with low-fat crackers or raw vegetables, such as celery sticks. Low-

SALSA dip will impress the teen-age crowd

Salsa

- 1 lb. tomatoes (about 2 medium)
- 5 scallions, finely chopped
- 1 or 2 (or more) cloves garlic, finely minced
- 2 or 3 hot peppers, very finely chopped
- 3 tbsp. chopped fresh or 1 tbsp. dried parsley
- 1/4 tsp. cumin
- 1 tsp. or more lime juice
- Pepper sauce, if desired

Cut tomatoes in half parallel to stem ends. Gently squeeze out juice and seeds. Finely chop remaining pulp.
In medium bowl, combine tomato with scallion, garlic, hot pepper, parsley, cumin, lime juice and pepper sauce, adjusting ingredients to suit preference.

Salsa may be used as is, or for a more sauce-like consistency, all or part of mixture may be pureed in blender or food processor.

Serve immediately or cover and chill up to 3 to 4 hours before serving.

Makes 1 1/2 cups salsa, 11 calories and no fat per 4-tablespoon serving.

Briefly

Scholarship available

The Mitchell School PTA is currently accepting applications from Granite City High School graduating seniors wishing to receive the annual Laurabeth Wittkamp Award of $100. Academic achievement, financial need, and having attended Mitchell Elementary School are the criteria used to judge the applicants.

Seniors wishing to apply should contact their high school counselor. Applications must be submitted to Kristen Hamilton, the guidance secretary, by April 22nd.

The applications will be reviewed and the recipient will be contacted. The award will be presented at the May general meeting of the Mitchell School PTA.

Local student on dean's list

A Granite City student has been named to the fall, 1990 dean's list at Evangel College, Springfield, Missouri.

He is Kenneth Wojtowicz, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wojtowicz of Granite City. A 1990 graduate of Granite City High School, Wojtowicz is majoring in Biblical Studies at Evangel. He is a freshman.

Evangel is the national four-year Assemblies of God college of arts and sciences. It is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music, the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education and the North Central Association.

Evangel College's enrollment is approximately 1600. The administration is headed by President Robert H. Spence.

Local student graduates

Lori Wyatt, daughter of Bill and Shirley Wyatt of Granite City, graduated with honors from Patricia Stevens College in St. Louis. Lori graduated with an Interior Design degree on Saturday, March 23, in a ceremony at Patricia Stevens College in downtown St. Louis.

Local student in Who's Who

Julie Ann Riden of Granite City has been named included in the 1991 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Who's Who students were selected from more than 1,400 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

Riden was selected by a campus nominating committee at Northeast Missouri State University and editors of the annual directory based on academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and future potential.

Riden, a senior mathematics major at the university, is the daughter of Donald and Norma Riden of Granite City.

Tulane student honored

Michelle M. Jones, a 1987 Granite City Senior High School graduate, has been honored by Tulane University for her volunteer service.

A reception was held March 20, at the Lagniappe Room of the Reilly Student Recreation Center. The university and the Department of Campus Recreation in association with General Motors Corp. honored Michelle and two other students with the GM Volunteer Spirit Award.

The award includes shares of stock in General Motors. Michelle has been active on the women's soccer team throughout her four years at the university.

She has also been a member of the Sports Board, which oversees activities of all the universities' sports teams for the last three years. Michelle will be graduating on May 11 from the university.

She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Janek of Granite City.

Flygirls win Lake School Dance contest

Lake School's recently-staged first annual Dance contest was won by the Flygirls. The quartet of dancers includes Marcia Plank, Andrea Gitcho, Ahniwake Whitehorn and Melissa Johnson.

The contest came about after teachers and Principal Helen Schmeisser noticed many students playing "boom boxes" during noon recess and dancing to the music of Vanilla Ice, M.C. Hammer and Paula Abdul, among others.

When a dance contest was suggested, 30 teams of two to four dancers each quickly signed up to participate.

The youngsters practiced after school and on weekends and some made up matching costumes to impress the judges, the teachers said.

After a preliminary competition, eight teams remained to dance in the finals at a school assembly on March 21.

The judges included Kim Myrre, a student teacher from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and a former Miss Granite City. Larry Lakin, Lake School custodian and the winner of several area dance competitions. Karen Kapale, Lakin's dance partner. Lake teachers Judy Collins and Pat Michaeloff.

and Lake students Jason Donohue and Kim Duchs.

Learning Center teacher Casey Krakowicki organized the event and served as master of ceremonies.

As a special treat, Lakin and Kapale danced two numbers from a recent dance contest, and Myrre performed the acrobatic dance routine which won the talent competition for her in the Miss Illinois contest.

In close voting, Angela and Amy Brown took second place; and Kim Smay, Bobbi Kingsley, Jennifer Brown and Mandy Johnson earned third place.

Lake School PTA purchased McDonald's gift certificates and a trophy on which will be engraved with the names of each year's winners.

Steering committee named

Principal David Painter of Granite City High School has announced the names of the steering committee members who will direct the school's efforts during its self-study and NCA evaluation.

The committee will be composed of eight members and will be chaired by Sonya Adkerson, who is coordinator of Guidance and Special Needs.

The other members of the committee are: Harold Gebhardt, Cynthia Hornell, Michael Johnson, Rick Pennell, Cathy Riebold, Phil Shatto and Painter. NCA membership requires that a school undergo a self-study and an evaluation once every seven years. It is the responsibility of the steering committee to coordinate the school's self-study, establish the time schedule for both the various staff subcommittees and make the necessary preparations for the visit by the evaluation team.

According to Adkerson, the evaluation being undertaken by the school will involve a "thorough review of the school's program and operations. The core inquiry will be on the extent to which the teaching and learning activities within the school carry out its major purposes."

The high school was last evaluated in 1985. The school has maintained full accreditation since it received NCA membership in 1989.

The North Central Association, the nation's largest regional accrediting association, is a voluntary league of more than 7,000 schools, colleges and universities within a 19-state region. The association works with individual schools and institutions to improve the quality of education at all levels through a continuous process of accreditation and evaluation.

Students in vocal contest

Local vocal students participated in the District Solo and Ensemble Contest at the East Alton Middle School and received 16 first place ratings and one second place rating.

Soloists who received first place ratings were: Amy Austin, Melodie Barnes, Laurie Barron, Mandy Bloodworth, Angie Bridges, Kim Elmore, April Glowacki, Jennifer Lewis, Sara Rainer, Jessica Sealey, and Heather Walker. Six ensembles, including the swing choir, also received first place rating.

The following girls performed with the swing choir: Kelly Ahlers, Melodie Barnes, Laurie

Barron, Mandy Bloodworth, Angie Bridges, Cindy Crabie, Kim Elmore, April Glowacki, Jennifer Lewis, Angie Littlejohn, Jennifer Maher, Jennifer Moore, Amanda Pond, Sara Rainer, Melissa Ross, Jessica Sealey, Heather Smothers, Heather Walker, and Stacy Weiser.

Other students participating in ensembles were Matt Krause, Robert Glasgow, Brad Graves, Rachel Boone, Shawna Lynch, Melissa Long, Carrie Kinser, Amy Austin, Chellie Cox, and Jaime Harper.

The performers are students of Delores Barker and were accompanied by pianist Kim Gindler.

Troop 96 earns two derby awards

Troop 96, sponsored by Granite City Steel and the Community Credit Union, participated with some 42 other Boy Scout troops of the Trails West Council in the Klondike Derby held Feb. 23 at the Flying Horse Scout Ranch, Williamson, Ill.

The derby is an event that challenges the individual Boy Scout's skills, his cooperation and his teamwork in moving a sled through six different stations (towns) over a distance of two miles.

At each station, the Scouts were graded on how well they performed the tasks, such as in first aid, knot tying, orienteering, portaging and campsite safety.

Troop 96 received one award for the most "Rustic Sled" and received the third-place award for the overall competition.

Boy Scouts participating in this event were: Rick Evans, David Rosales, Jerry Cicio, Bryan Kromray, Jeremy McCauley, Pat Gibson, Fred Sansoucie, Todd Ahlers, Jeremy Thomas, Brian Millsap, Andy Swain, Brandon Prather, Jeff Lofink and Dana Bauer.

Scoutmasters who accompanied the Boy Scouts were Joe Rosales, Tally Evans, Dick Ahlers, Tim Lofink, Fred Sansoucie and Bob Grayson.

When it comes time to choose a health plan, how can you tell which one's right for you?

"Many St. Louisans will be asked by their employers to choose a health plan in the weeks ahead. But as most of us well know, choosing a plan that's right for you and your family isn't always easy. Some plans have deductibles and coinsurance, while others might not. Some cover the total cost of services that other plans might not cover at all. And the doctors and hospitals available to plan members can also vary greatly, not only in terms of their sheer number, but also, in terms of their quality and accessibility.

To help provide St. Louisans with answers to questions we typically discuss with professionals — company benefits managers — we have prepared this series. Naturally, we hope this information convinces you to consider HealthAmerica and helps you to make the right choice about a health plan."

Group Health Plan Responds...

There are several questions to address when asked to decide on a health plan — for starters: How good is the coverage and how much will it cost?

In a nutshell, GHP covers virtually all of the medical services you need — hospital and surgical care, diagnostic tests and other services you expect any good health insurance plan to cover. But GHP covers these services in full — with no deductibles and no coinsurance.

And we not only provide the essential coverage when you're ill. We also cover a wide range of important preventive services to keep you well — services including routine physicals, pediatric check-ups, immunizations, cholesterol checks, eye exams, mammograms, routine Ob/Gyn exams, as well as other early-detection procedures. But don't stop here.

Take a close look at this chart to see how GHP compares to standard health insurance:

	Standard Insurance	GHP's Most Popular Plan
HOSPITAL SERVICES
Medical/Surgical Surgery	365 Days Covered At 80% After Deductible Subject to UCR*	PAID IN FULL PAID IN FULL
Diagnostic X-rays And Tests	Paid In Full	PAID IN FULL
PREVENTIVE SERVICES
Periodic Physical Exams	Not Covered	$5
Cancer Screening	Not Covered	$5
Cholesterol Checks	Not Covered	$5
Routine Mammograms	Covered, Subject To UCR	$5
Routine Ob/Gyn Exams And Pap Tests	Typically Not Covered	$5
Periodic Eye Exams	Not Covered	$5
Well-Child Care (Routine Check-Ups)	Typically Not Covered	$5
Immunizations	Not Covered	$5
Hearing Tests and Exams	Not Covered	$5
Health Education Services (Weight Control, Stress Management, Lamaze, Etc.)	Not Covered	$5
OTHER MEDICAL BENEFITS
Prescribed Drugs	80% After Deductible	$5
Coinurance (The Portion Paid By Individuals)	20% Of Billed Charges	NONE
Annual Deductible Per Person	$200 - $500	NONE
Maximum Reimbursement Per Person	$250,000 - $1 Million	UNLIMITED FOR COVERED BENEFITS
*UCR — Usual, Customary & Reasonable Charges
For comparative purposes only. Refer to insurer's benefits for more details or check with your employer for specific benefits at your company.

Beyond looking at specific coverages, you need to address other key questions, such as the quality of care and the caliber and availability of doctors. Here are some answers from Group Health Plan:

☒ Hundreds of doctors to choose from. Group Health Plan is affiliated with hundreds of St. Louis's leading physicians, and each and every one of them has been screened, selected and monitored by other doctors.

☒ Freedom to choose — and to change — doctors. When you join Group Health Plan you choose a primary care doctor from our extensive directory. And if you ever become dissatisfied with your choice of physician, you may choose again from our directory, no questions asked.

☒ Leading area hospitals. Group Health Plan enjoys affiliations with 22 of the area's most prestigious institutions including Barnes, Children's, St. John's Mercy, St. Louis University and Cardinal Glennon, as well as most of the area's leading community hospitals.

☒ Conveniently located doctors. GHP physicians practice in their own offices, located in neighborhoods throughout the metropolitan area. There are also 13 Group Health Plan health centers throughout the city, which have proved a great convenience for our members. The centers save our members (especially those from busy two-wage-earner families) a lot of time. For example, you can get a complete physical, lab tests, x-rays and an eye exam, all under one roof.

☒ No time-consuming paperwork. When you join Group Health Plan, you do away with almost all the paperwork required by standard insurance plans. You'll rarely have to fill out a claim form or wait for reimbursements. All you need to do is show your gray GHP member ID card. We take care of the rest.

☒ And there's Group Health Plan's track record. Founded in 1982, GHP has grown into St. Louis' premier HMO, currently serving nearly 100,000 members and over 500 St. Louis employers, including nearly every area Fortune 500 company. As we're fond of saying, that's pretty darn good company to keep.

Of course we can't address all your questions here, which is why we suggest that you get a second opinion by speaking with your company's benefits manager and also taking a moment to send in the coupon so we can provide you with the specifics you'll want...and demonstrate that Group Health Plan Responds.

☐ I'd like to make an informed choice about a health plan, so please send me more information.

Phi Kappa Phi gives awards

One hundred seventy-one students and four faculty members of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale participated in the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society initiation ceremonies recently.

Phi Kappa Phi recognizes and encourages superior scholarship, integrity and the best scholars in all disciplines. Faculty members initiated into the society included Nancy S. Reason, dean of the School of Nursing; Dennis J. Kitz, chairman of the department of biological sciences; Nancy K. Ruff, assistant professor of English language and literature; and Lealyn L. Ryberg, assistant professor of nursing.

New members included: GRANT CITY: Linda McDonald, Kimberly Myracle, Tina Paschedag, Kari Rapoff and Sharon Reader.

FIRST PLACE ORATORICAL WINNERS: Dustin Wilkinson and Tara Wyatt, who are advancing zone competition in the Optimist Annual Oratorical Contest.

2 win Oratorical Contest

Tara Wyatt, 14, and Dustin Wilkinson, 14, both of Granite City, won the oratorical contest conducted by the Optimist Club of Granite City. The contest was held April 4 at Jerry's Cafeteria.

Each earned the right to compete in the zone competition at the Bank of Edwardsville. Winners from the zone competition go on to the Illinois District competition, where boy and girl winners each receive a $1500 scholarship.

Other local participants included: second place Renee Biggs and Paul Austin; and third place Heather Mefford and Jacob Erickson and Joanna Webb and Jennifer Milton. All are freshman and sophomore students of Ron Pennell at the Granite City Senior High School.

Participants in the 1990-91 Optimist Oratorical Contest make a four-to-five minute oral presentation on the topic "I Only" before a panel of judges.

Winners are determined on the basis of organization of material, delivery and presentation, personal appearance and poise and overall effectiveness.

Nearly 40,000 young Optimist Clubs across North America have conducted the oratorical contest annually since 1928. A total of $156,000 in scholarships will be awarded this year to the boy and girl winners from the 52 district contests.

Persons interested in learning more about opportunities in the Optimist program may visit a regular club meeting at noon on Thursdays at the Granite City YMCA.

BAC Extension Center to sponsor children's play

As part of Community College Month, Belleville Area College's Extension Office is sponsoring two appearances by Alice, the March Hare, the Cheshire Cat, the White Rabbit, the Queen of Hearts and the rest of the characters from Lewis Carroll's "Alice In Wonderland" at Blair and Harris elementary schools in Madison.

Both productions, performed by the Imaginary Theatre Company (ITC) of The Repertory Theatre of St. Louis, will be on Friday, April 19—at 9:30 a.m. at Blair, and at 1:30 p.m. at Harris.

The plays are open only to the respective elementary school students.

"Belleville Area College appreciates the opportunity to celebrate Community College Month in communities where the college offers hometown courses," said Laura C. Hartung, director of BAC's Extension Center Office.

"I am confident the program will be culturally enriching experience for everyone involved."

During the 45-minute program, the ITC uses its own special blend of imagination, and the winning story line of "Alice In Wonderland" to present this madcap, fantasy extravaganza. "Upon closer scrutiny though, one begins to see the story ('Alice In Wonderland') as a strong statement for the value of wit and nonsense and an indictment of the confining, exceedingly moral and sensible children's literature of the Victorian era, when all that a proper child was exposed to was practical and rigidly regulated," said Jeffery Matthews, director of the production.

The ITC, created in the 1972-73 season to perform before young audiences, is the resident, professional, touring company of The Repertory Theatre of St. Louis.

Louis

The goal of the company is to act as a catalyst for the audience's imaginations. Through its productions, the ITC strives to encourage creative thinking and imaginative involvement by those in attendance.

Westminster elects Jon Lostutter to campus treasurer post

Westminster College junior Jon K. Lostutter of Granite City, has been elected treasurer of the Student Government Association at the private, liberal arts college in Fulton, Missouri.

The term of office took effect following student body elections at the college on March 7. As treasurer, Lostutter will be responsible for keeping accurate financial records for the Student Government Association and Student Assembly, and will be required to submit a monthly financial report to the Student Assembly.

Lostutter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jon Lostutter of 2105 Willow Avenue, Granite City. He is a 1988 graduate of Granite City

High School. Lostutter is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity and the Chaplain's Associates. He is attending Westminster on a President's Academic Scholarship.

Recent releases show variety of video love stories

The recent video release of Philip Kaufman's "Henry and June" (1990, MCA/Universal, $89.98), based on the diaries of Anais Nin, allows viewers to see what all the fuss was about last year when the picture became the first to be rated NC-17 instead of X.

Those hoping for pornography will be let down, but those seeking a thoughtful, erotic exploration of adult relationships will find it a rare treat for a mainstream American movie. Set in a lushly romanticized Paris of the '30s, exquisitely rendered through period costumes and sets and Philippe Rousselot's Oscar-nominated cinematography, the movie examines the burgeoning literary and sexual union of Henry Miller and Anais Nin, both married to others.

She is wed to an uptight banker, and he is hitched to a blond bombshell named June. Kaufman achieves both a sensual and intellectual atmosphere that delineates the characters' senses of wonder and curiosity.

Fred Ward ("Big Business," "The Right Stuff") is a wonderfully earthy and funny Miller (though his shaved head is distracting). Maria de Medeiros is a delicate and delightful Nin (and a dead ringer for her) and

Mason Wiley

Uma Thurman ("Dangerous Liaisons") is stunning as the mix-like June.

In its beauty and sensuality, "Henry and June" recalls director Ken Russell's "Women in Love" (1970, MGM/UA, $29.95), based on D.H. Lawrence's novel. Glenda Jackson won her first Oscar as one of the two educated, British sisters in the '20s drawn to two contrasting men.

Jackson goes for a rich, autocratic coal mine heir played by Oliver Reed, while her sister, played by Jennie Linden, is fascinated by a philosophical educator, portrayed with panache by Alan Bates. Billy Williams' sensual cinematography was Oscar-nominated, as was the script by producer-playwright Larry Kramer ("The Normal Heart").

Another four-character love triangle is "Quartet" (1981, Warner, $69.95), an adaptation of the Jean Ithys novel by the team of Ishmael Merchant and James Ivory ("A Room With a View"). Alan Bates and Maggie Smith play a rich British couple living in bohemian Paris in the '30s who take in a lost young woman, played by Isabelle Adjani, whose husband has just been imprisoned. Soon Bates has Adjani under his sexual sway as Smith forces herself to look the other way. Don't expect love scenes.

Sexual politics are depicted in a lighter vein in writer-director Paul Mazursky's "Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice" (1969, Goodtimes, $14.95), a satire on how the comfortable middle class responded to the changing mores of the 'swinging '60s. Natalie Wood and Robert Culp play the would-be hip couple, experimenting with the new freedoms, while Dyan Cannon and Elliot Gould portray their square friends who do their best to keep up with them. Mazursky and co-scenarist

Larry Tucker received Oscar nominations for their script.

The classic Hollywood marital romp, winning a Best Director Oscar for Leo McCary, is "The Awful Truth" (1937, RCA/Columbia, $29.95). Cary Grant and Irene Dunne sparkle with slapstick aplomb as a married couple who have drifted apart. Divorce proves to be impractical, starting with the custody fight over their dog Asta of "Thin Man" fame.

Even worse, the former spouses can't stand seeing their former mates with other suitors, so they play games to break apart the new couplings.

BEST BET: "Presumed Innocent" (1990, Warner, $92.95). The film adaptation of Scott Turow's best-selling novel about a hot-shot lawyer (Harrison Ford) on trial for murdering his mistress (Greta Scacchi), with a tip-top supporting cast: Bonnie Bedelia, Brian Dennehy, Raul Julia and Paul Winfield.

Mason Wiley is a contributor to City Limits, Premiere, Cosmopolitan and The New York Times.
